Washington Is Considering Evacuation of Civilians
MAJOR STRUGGLE
Chinese Army Reports It Has Smashed Jap Offensive

Tientsin, China, (Thursday).—A Japanese air fleet roared over the country side about Peiping early this morning, dropping leaflets warning the Chinese populace to evacuate, after a full day of undeclared war in North China that extended from the former dragon capital to the sea.

Peiping (By U. S. Embassy Wireless to Shanghai).—The majority of the 675 American civilians in Peiping took refuge in the United States embassy compound tonight at the close of the first day of major Chinese-Japanese hostilities in this area.

Washington.—Secretary Hull said today that possible evacuation of American civilians from Peiping was being considered as one eventually to be met in the present Sino-Japanese crisis.

Nanking.—A high official of the Chinese foreign office declared today all efforts to maintain peace with Japan had been exhausted and "we accept the issue of battle."

"Actual hostilities will be on a major scale," he added, "and encompass all of China. It will not be the case of some Chinese soldiers in North China fighting the Japanese but instead will be all of China against Japan."

He said the Nanking government expected "trouble to come to central and South China."

"There is no longer any hesitation in China's foreign policy. Our efforts toward peace have been exhausted. With reluctance we accept the issue to battle and once fighting begins we never surrender."

By the Associated Press
The Chinese 29th army reported today it had smashed a Japanese offensive against Peiping, "city of northern peace," in the first major battle of the informal war in North China.

The Japanese attacked Peiping's environs at dawn, after expiration of their final ultimatum demanding withdrawal of Chinese divisions from the Peiping area.

A withering Japanese aerial attack shattered the Chinese lines. Chinese commanders declared their troops recovered, however, and captured Fengtai, Japanese field headquarters west of Peiping, and Langfang, important railroad center midway between Peiping and Tientsin, in a counter-attack.

They reported also that Nanyuan, Chinese garrison town taken by the Japanese, was recaptured and that a railroad bridge was blown up at Yangtsun, severing Japanese military communication between Tientsin and the battle area.

Japs Deny Report
The Japanese high command at Tientsin, base of the Japanese army in North China, denied the Chinese reports and asserted that Peiping's defenders had been hurled back on the city's walls.

Both capitals made declarations of open hostilities.

Japan formally declared its intention to resort to arms to punish China, charging repeated acts of provocation against Japan.

Premier Prince Fumimaro Kono, to the wild cheers of the house of representatives, meeting in Tokyo, interrupted a session of parliament to declare Japan's intention to take forceful action. The legislators then unanimously approved a $30,000,000 war appropriation.

A spokesman for the Chinese central government at Nanking declared a formal declaration of war "impossible since the Kellough pact."

"But," he declared, "actual hostilities have begun."

A Defy To Women
The French Senate (memberships 314) has just reaffirmed its declaration that the husband has the right to choose the family's domicile, in rule in family disputes, in short, that he is the head of the family. Well, 30 million Frenchmen can't be wrong, but evidently 314 French Senators can't be right. No doubt that's why French papers carry such ineffective classified war-ads. Now here's one from The Post-Crescent that brought good results.

Leaders Fight Demands for End of Term

Democratic Chiefs Want Major Measures Passed First

COURT BILL REMAINS
Barkley Threatens to Prolong Daily Senate Sessions

Washington.—(U)—Democratic leaders, fighting increased demands for early adjournment of congress, were endeavoring today to hold it in session long enough to enact the major parts of the administration program.

They received support from a group of first-year Democratic senators, who told Majority Leader Barkley at a dinner last night they opposed delaying important bills until next year.

Completion of a substitute court bill, however, added to the pressure from many members for a quick wind-up of the session at least by Aug. 14.

In an effort to compromise the demands for further legislation on the one hand and for early adjournment on the other, Barkley threatened to lengthen the daily session.

Administration efforts for the present were directed toward passage of the court bill and the wage-hour legislation. Leaders were making no commitment on an adjournment date or on the extent of the clean-up program.

Committee Unanimous
The new court bill reached the senate after unanimous approval by the same judiciary committee which condemned the original Roosevelt bill.

Confined to non-controversial procedural changes in the lower courts, leaders expected it to go quickly through the senate.

It would speed appeals in constitutional cases, permit the intervention of the attorney general in such cases, require three-judge courts for issuance of injunctions suspending acts of congress, and permit shifts of judges within judicial districts to relieve congestion.

Housing legislation still was regarded as a possibility by many senators. Barring White House insistence, they were counting on dropping the controversial farm and government reorganization bills.

Some members of both houses still were insisting, however, on consideration of the ever-normal granary bill before adjournment.

Despite house approval yesterday of one part of the president's government reorganization program, provision for six assistants for the chief executive—the senate may not take it up at this session.

There was recurring discussion among some legislators of a recess until mid-October. Leaders generally were opposed.

Jealousy Blamed In Slaying Case
Wife of Suspect Says He Voiced Threat to Kill Woman

New York.—(U)—A jealousy motive supplied by an estranged wife led District Attorney Charles Sullivan to demand the death penalty for Stanley A. Martin, Jr., 29-year-old confessed slayer of a Wall street broker's wife.

Sullivan said the new motive, volunteered by Mrs. Evelyn Martin, pretty southern-born wife of the philandering killer, was evidence that Martin strangled his victim by design and not as he insists "because she asked me to."

The victim, Mrs. Florence Jackson, 38, mother of two small children, was found dead, with her arms clutched around Martin's shoulders, as he drove her around the streets of Flushing, L. I., at dawn yesterday.

Mrs. Martin told the district attorney that some weeks ago her husband, commenting on his illicit love affair with Mrs. Jackson, declared:

"I am going to kill her because she is making me jealous."

Farm Price Stabilization Bill Shelved for Term
Washington.—(U)—Chairman Jones (D-Texas) of the house agriculture committee announced today that congressional action on farm price stabilization legislation had been postponed definitely until next session.

The announcement came after Jones had met with Speaker Bankhead, Majority Leader Rayburn and members of the committee.

Jones said the committee had decided to follow a course previously decided upon by the senate agriculture committee—to study the legislation at meetings before the session of congress convenes in January.

New Deal Policies To be Permanent, Farley Maintains
Says They Will be Carried Out by People Through the Years

Milwaukee.—(U)—Postmaster General James A. Farley concluded a whirlwind visit to Wisconsin by telling 900 Democrats and their friends at a banquet last night that the policies of the Roosevelt administration have come to stay and will be carried out by people down through the years.

Farley dedicated a new $80,000 post office at Oconomowoc yesterday afternoon during a tour of inspection of nearly two dozen Wisconsin post offices.

"You do not need to worry about this country being entangled in foreign affairs as long as President Roosevelt is in the White House," he told his audience.

Farley called Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin a "loyal supporter of the president's program" and said "no one has more interest in the success of Senator Duffy next year than I."

He said he wished to see him returned to the senate next year.

Grateful to LaFollette
"And I want to say I am grateful," Farley continued, "and I know the president is grateful, for the fine support accorded him (the president) by Senator Bob LaFollette."

Before the banquet, Farley was asked in an interview whether the president would support Senator Duffy for reelection.

"I never presume to speak for the president at any time," Farley replied, "but I feel Duffy is entitled."

The victim, John Shuda, 19, died of a compound skull fracture 10 minutes after being brought to a local hospital. His head was crushed and his other injuries included fractures of both shoulders.

Governor Gets Report On Death of Inmate
Madison.—(U)—Governor LaFollette received an oral report today from John J. Hannan, president of the state board of control, on the death of Ole Fredrickson, 80, of Whitehall last July 10, four days after admittance to Mendota State hospital.

The governor said he would make an announcement soon whether further action will be taken in the case. Fredrickson's family asked an investigation.

Hearing Next Week on Post Mortem Demand
Madison.—(U)—Carl N. Hill, attorney for 15-year-old Harold Best of Soldiers Grove, said today Crawford county Judge Jeremiah O'Neil had agreed to hear next Wednesday afternoon a petition for exhumation of the body of Orla L. Shaw and post mortem examination.

Shaw, uncle of Harold and his 11-year-old sister Mildred who was slain June 4, died two weeks after the killing.

Hill's petition, which was to be served formally today, set forth the opinion of a Madison specialist that Shaw's death was caused by poison.

Shaw was stricken at the inquest into the girl's death.

Harold has been held in the Crawford county jail at Prairie du Chien since the death of his sister. County officials announced he twice confessed shooting her and twice retracted the confession.

Governor's Office Is Swamped With Messages About Tall Corn Contest
Madison.—(U)—Telegrams, letters and telephone calls about tall corn kept Governor Philip LaFollette's office in an uproar today.

Ever since the executive accepted the challenge of Governor Nelson G. Kraschel of Iowa to a corn-matching contest, offers of corn and advice have come rolling in.

While department of agriculture and markets field men toured the southern part of the state in search of cornstalks reported 16 and 17 feet tall, the executive office received a telegram from Davenport, Iowa, claiming Iowa's Scott county produces corn 18 feet 5 1/2 inches tall.

The best Wisconsin specimen will be taken to Des Moines Saturday by Governor LaFollette, who will speak there at a meeting of Progressive and Farmer-Labor groups.

Donations to Charity Not Tax Evasion

Treasury Followed Precedents on Mrs. Roosevelt's Contract
NO INCOME FOR HER
Jackson Denies Any Discrimination in Favor Of First Lady

Washington.—(U)—Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, said today the treasury had merely followed precedents in ruling that a radio contract did not result in taxable income to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Jackson told a joint congressional tax committee, "received no income for herself and was no richer directly or indirectly for her labors."

Because the contract provided that a Philadelphia charity should receive $3,000 after each broadcast, Representative Fish (R-N. Y.) had accused the president's wife of using a tax loophole. Jackson was called at the insistence of Republican committee members to explain the ruling.

During his testimony, the assistant attorney general denied vigorously that Mrs. Roosevelt had employed "a clever little scheme" to avoid tax payments.

"Doesn't the category of a 'clever little scheme' to use the president's own words," asked Representative Treadway (R-Mass.), "No Discrimination."

"There you are questioning her motive," Jackson replied. "I think it does not come in such a category. If Mrs. Roosevelt had wanted to avoid her taxes, she would not have come near the bureau."

He contended there was no discrimination in favor of Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Never under any administration," he said, "has the bureau of internal revenue considered as income the value of proceeds of services donated in good faith to charity."

The justice department official was chief of the internal revenue legal unit when the ruling in Mrs. Roosevelt's case was made in 1934.

No Formal Rulings
Without formal rulings, Jackson asserted, the internal revenue commission for years has permitted proceeds of charity concerts, prize-fights, baseball games and similar entertainments to be treated on the same basis as Mrs. Roosevelt's lectures and not be taxed except insofar as the performers personally benefited from them. Aside from $1 to make the contract binding, Jackson said, the president's wife received no benefit measurable in terms of money from her broadcasts.

He added that the internal revenue bureau has been diligent to see that its position on charitable performances "was not abused as a cover for an assignment of income, or an order to pay income to third persons, which was in substance an avoidance of taxes."

Jackson said, however, it was not always easy to draw the line. In each case, he said, it must be determined whether the transaction actually was a donation of services without income.

Fifteen Killed as Airliner Crashes
Three Americans Perish in Belgium; Lightning Believed Cause

Amsterdam.—(U)—Fifteen persons, three of them identified by airline attaches as Americans, died today in the flaming plunge of a Netherlands airliner at Hal, Belgium.

The airline said the last names of the Americans were "Murn, Canton and Goldblom," and said it had no other information about them. A Mexican named Trillo was listed among the dead.

After a preliminary investigation, officials said they were inclined to believe the plane was struck by lightning.

The transport, a Douglas, crashed in flames after an explosion in mid-air. Its 10 passengers and four crew members, including a stewardess, were killed instantly.

The ship left Amsterdam at 9:20 a. m. and crashed on a flight to Paris after having landed at Brussels.

Airport employees at Brussels said they noticed " queer engine noises " as the liner took off.

Terrorism Reigns as British Royal Couple Visits North Ireland

Labor Board Is Impartial, President Says; Senate in Debate on Pay-Hour Group

Washington.—(U)—The house labor committee drastically revised the administration's wage-hour bill today to give the proposed labor standards board power to establish minimum wages as high as 70 cents an hour and a maximum work week as short as 35 hours.

The house committee acted while the senate debated the administration measure to permit such a board to fix wages no higher than 40 cents an hour and hours no lower than 40 a week.

The house changes were made, committee members said, after Chairman Norton (D-N. J.) voted to break a tie. The changes were proposed by Representative Wood (D-Mo.).

Representative Ramspeck (D-Ga.), ranking majority member, predicted the amendment would defeat the bill in the house if left unchanged.

Across the capitol Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said the bill under consideration there might place industry in a "straight-jacket."

He called for "a period of adjustment" to the Wagner labor relations act before placing the nation under a "new code."

"There is such a thin gas economic indigestion," the powerful Michigan phrase-maker said. "There is also such a thing as economic suicide."

Vandenberg coupled his attack on the wage and hour bill—the Black-Connery measure—with a demand that the "one-way street" of the Wagner labor relations act be revised to govern the conduct of union organization.

Washington.—(U)—President Roosevelt's assertion that the national labor relations board is impartial coincided today with senate debate over creating an additional board to fix wage and hour standards.

Criticism of the labor board from both capital and labor, he said, is an indication it has been fair to everyone.

The president made known his views at a press conference a day after Representative Rankin (D-Miss.) had accused the board of conspiring with communist influences to destroy southern industries.

Hugh Johnson, former NRA administrator, recently called the board a one-sided "pressure" group. Senator Nye (R-Ore.) said "the average man regards it as an adjunct" to John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

From other persons, Mr. Roosevelt said, have come assertions that the board was biased in favor of industry.

In reply to a query, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know whether the Wagner labor relations act could be strengthened by inserting provisions to make unions more responsible in keeping agreements.

He said, however, he believes the act is not one-sided, and expressed the opinion many employers have violated agreements in the last 10 years.

He referred to the British trade union act as containing a fair degree of mutual responsibility, although he suggested the United States could not adopt its verbatim.

Union responsibility was an issue in senate consideration of the administration wage and hour bill, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) was ready with an amendment creating such responsibility.

Chairman Black (D-Ala.) said, however, his labor committee had agreed to a similar amendment.

3 District WPA Offices Abolished in Wisconsin
Madison.—(U)—Three district offices of the Wisconsin Works Progress administration at Rhineland, LaCrosse and Lancaster have been abolished to curtail administrative costs. E. Lee Inghold, state personnel director, announced today.

Inghold said a reduction in the number of districts from 10 to 7 was made necessary by a congressional act limiting administrative expenses to 5 per cent of the work allotments.

Some of the employees in the offices abolished will be dropped but the directors probably will be retained, Inghold said. The personnel changes will be determined by State Administrator M. W. Terkelson.

Lauds Progress in Liquidating Banks
Washington.—(U)—Chairman Leo T. Crowley of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation commended today progress in liquidating closed Wisconsin state banks. He also said improvement has been effected in the state's banking system.

He told Herbert Ibach, Wisconsin state banking commissioner who has been reviewing with him a survey of the FDIC made of Wisconsin state banks, the state was "operating fully" with the FDIC.

Crowley said the report showed that seven Wisconsin state banks closed since the beginning of deposit insurance in January, 1934, four have repaid the FDIC 100 per cent on the funds advanced.

Duffy Proposes Change In Revenue Act of 1936

Irish Republicans Believed Responsible For Outbreak
CROWDS HAIL KING
Gas Main Explosion in Belfast Held to be Accidental

Belfast, Northern Ireland.—(U)—Terrorists shattered the peace of Belfast and Ulster's Free State border with bombs, arson and gunfire today in hostile greeting to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Police blamed the outbreak on Irish republicans.

While the king and queen, on a coronation visit, were driving to the Belfast city hall through crowded streets, a gas main explosion a half mile away boomed through a wide area of Belfast. It came as a climax to a night of terror in which customs houses were burned and a railroad bridge was dynamited.

After the British sovereigns were received at the city hall, attended a state luncheon and a garden party, and saw a parade of youth organizations, investigators decided the gas explosion probably was accidental.

However, the Royal Ulster constabulary at Belfast said they were investigating the possibility that the blast might have been caused by a land mine.

Other explosions and disorders, including the burning of 28 customs houses between Carrington and Bundoran, were attributed to a "big plot," rumors of which had reached the ears of authorities last week.

Thronges Come Early
Crowds lining the streets cheered the king and queen on their drive through the city. The throngs started gathering last night and hundreds ate picnic breakfasts in the streets to keep their places.

At the city hall the king replied to an address of welcome by saying:

"We cannot thank you enough for the kindness and warmth of the welcome you have given us. We are delighted to find ourselves among you once again to renew our acquaintance with our loyal people of northern Ireland, whom we wish ever-increasing prosperity and happiness."

Belfast explosion broke scores of windows and damaged a customs building. A child playing nearby was injured.

The king and queen heard the explosion, but no change was made in the coronation program. An estimated million persons jammed the streets to see the sovereigns on their nine-hour visit.

The outrages were believed designed to frighten crowds who came from the Free State to see the king and not as attacks upon the monarchy himself.

Crowds at Quayside Roused a Welcome
Crowds at the quayside roused a welcome when the king and queen arrived on the royal yacht. They were met by the North Ireland cabinet.

British customs houses along both sides of the Free State border were destroyed by roving bands. A railroad bridge near Dundalk, far from the route taken by the sovereigns, was dynamited 10 minutes after a crowded, Belfast-bound excursion train had passed.

The blast partially destroyed the span and severed telegraphic communications between northern Ireland and the Free State.

Free State officers reported finding three unexploded mines under the railway line. One other had exploded.

Residents of Lanes, in County Monaghan, said they spent the night in terror.

Armed bands roamed the countryside, firing revolvers into the air. Other terrorists set fire to custom's houses on both the Free

Cool Weather Is Slowing Up Crop Ravages by Pests
Madison.—(U)—Cool weather is slowing up crop destruction by grasshoppers and cutworms, but the infestation in Wisconsin is the most widespread in years, Noel Thompson of the state entomology department said today.

"Early counties are infested with either grasshoppers or cutworms, or both," Thompson said. "The cool weather of the past several days has retarded activity of the pests, but we consider it only a 'breathing spell.'"

There is a shortage of poison bait in the northwest part of the state, he said. Southern counties, which last year suffered heavy damage from grasshoppers, have had more liberal supplies because their eradication campaigns started earlier.

"Poison will be forwarded to the northwest area as fast as we can get it," Thompson added. "I am now tracing a railroad consigned to mixing stations in the southeast."

The infested area, he said, includes all but a group of counties in the northeast section.

According to the new arrangement the paving will be laid in a 20-foot and two 4-foot strips.

Creamery Package Strike Is Ended

Workers at Ft. Atkinson Returning to Jobs Today and Tomorrow

Ft. Atkinson, Wis. (AP)—Francis Wendt, Racine attorney for the CIO United Automobile Workers local 14 at Ft. Atkinson, disclosed today terms of an agreement which he said formally ended the week strike at the Creamery Package Manufacturing company plant. Wendt said the CIO union ratified last night the agreement worked out in cooperation with the state labor board and the A. F. of L. union, with which there was a jurisdictional dispute. Terms of the settlement, Wendt said, involved a three-party agreement between the two union groups and the company, and a bargaining agreement between the company and the CIO union. Wendt said the CIO union will continue as sole collective bargaining agent for all employees until Oct. 1 or until an election is ordered by the state labor board. The bargaining agreement, Wendt said, calls for re-employment of the strikers without discrimination, seniority rights, vacations with pay, and abandonment of an injunction against picketing. Workers were to resume their jobs today and tomorrow.

Asks Information On Special Meet But He Gets None

Senator Mike Mack Pays Visit to State Capitol in Madison

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Senator Mike Mack, Shiocton, of the Outagamie and Shawano county district, came to town yesterday to learn something definite on the prospects of a special session of the legislature, but like several dozen other legislators in the last few weeks, he went home with plenty of guesses but nothing specific. Everyone in the capitol, Mack found, is convinced that there will be a special session of the legislature, but the date of that session is unknown. Estimates range from August 2 to September 2. The Shiocton senator also conferred with the state board of health and the state highway commission on local problems. He consulted with Thomas Davison, highway commissioner on plans for the new bridge at Shiocton, initiated by citizens after a fatal accident there several months ago. According to Mack the cost of the bridge project will be borne jointly by the state and federal governments. Mack talked with Dr. C. A. Harwood, state board of health on a sewage problem in Shiocton arising out of the building of a new school gymnasium. He also questioned conservation department officials on the prospects for an open deer season this fall.

Scout Campers Splash in 1st Swim Meet of Season

Gardner Dam—Gardner Dam Boy Scout campers got their first taste of individual competition when they participated in the first swimming meet of the 1937 camp season Friday. Ribbon awards to the winners of first and second place in the events will be made at the final council campfire on Saturday night. Ray Thomas led the field in the breast stroke event with Tom Mc Carthy coming in second. Ray's brother Bud won both the sidestroke and the backstroke events with Marvin Cohen coming in second in the backstroke and Timm Mc Carthy finishing in the number two position in the sidestroke. The crawl stroke was won by Bob Ebben with Marvin Cohen capturing second place again. Timm Mc Carthy made the furthest plunge for distance closely followed by Jerome Toonen. The classic event of the afternoon, the race for the beginners' championship was won by Dick Marx who narrowly edged out Herman Bushman. Horseback Trips
Scouts who took the horses for their second ride of the week included Bob Kettenhofen, John Long, Don Duprey, Don Mc Lennan, Dick Dinger, Bob Mullen, Bill Mullen, Jim Bradley, Delmar Schulte, Ed Maxwell, John Walsh, Bob Butler, Jack Bradley and Waldo Puffer. Campers Donald Killor, Bob Hickey, Dick Ferron, Tom Lettler, Bob Krause and Eugene Killor finished their rides in the morning while the other scouts completed their trips in the afternoon. The Links, an honorary camp organization, met in the afternoon and discussed the possible procedure for the selection of new members for 1937. It was decided by the group that they would not select their own members but would permit the non-members among the campers to hold an election by ballot and they select the candidates whom they felt should be taken into the organization for this week. Ballots were distributed by Carl Runge and the campers elected Jim Bradley, Bud Trichter, John Walsh, Jim Miller, Ed Maxwell, Waldo Puffer and Don Mc Lennan. These scouts will spend Saturday doing the various ordeals, including a trip into the woods when they will cook their own meals. All the candidates will be under observation during the day and will only speak to individuals around the camp when it is absolutely necessary. Evening Campfire
The evening campfire included a program by four scouts who attended the National Jamboree in Washington, D. C. during the early part of the summer. The four campers presenting the program were Bob Ebben, Ray Thomas, Carl Runge and Bud Thomas. The scouts told of their experiences in Washington, on the trains and in New York. The campers asked questions about their trips to the various buildings and many were the questions about the federal bureau of investigation, the bureau of engraving, the Smithsonian institute, and other spots of interest. With the prospects of a full day ahead on Saturday including a track meet between all of the other activities planned, the campers were glad to head for their respective cabins at the close of the campfire at nine o'clock. A cool night of sleep was ahead and every camper dug out an extra blanket to keep warm.

County Leads in Damage by Fire

225 Fires Reported With Losses Figured at $93,963

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Outagamie county led counties of comparable size in 1936 in the number of fires and the damage to buildings and contents, according to the annual report of H. Mortensen, state fire marshal. Statistics of the state fire marshalls department are compiled annually from the reports of all local fire departments. There were 225 fires within the boundaries of Outagamie county last year, the report shows, which partially burned buildings and contents valued at $14,762,009. The total damage was $93,963. Almost all buildings burned, however, were insured for their full value, and $78,022 in insurance was paid on the damaged properties. Fire damages in other counties of the Appleton area were: Waupaca, $71,637; Winnebago, $30,953; Calumet, $30,686; Brown, $77,024; Shawano, $91,547.

Lawyer Likes Detention Camp but Prefers Freedom; Pays Fine of $4.95 to Get Out

BY WILLIAM L. CROW
On July 19, 1937, I became No. 335 at the Outagamie County detention camp. It happened this way. At 9 o'clock the previous Saturday I parked my car in a restricted area on College avenue, where it remained more than 90 minutes. I had driven down town in response to the telephone call of a friend from another part of the city who said that he wished to see me in my office before his departure. As I habitually walk to work, my mind never once reverted to the act of parking until, upon my arrival at home at noon, my wife asked, "Where's your car?" I immediately walked back, discovered a tag on the windshield, and proceeded with the tag to the police station, in compliance with the directions. At the time designated by the police I was found guilty of overtime parking and fined $2 and costs, a total of $4.95, in municipal court. If I did not care to pay this sum, said the judge, I had the option of serving 10 days at the Outagamie county detention camp. I decided to go to the camp. It would be better, I reasoned, to drive my own car. I was not sure when my resistance would break down, making it more psychologically profitable to pay $4.95 than to serve the remaining time. With my own car I could get away without delay, once I had made a decision. Has to Take Bath in Municipal Court
Upon arrival at the camp, I was greeted by Lloyd Brooker, the superintendent, slightly red, bald, and fifty. He shook hands with some feeling, as we have been acquainted for a considerable time. Showing his flair for politeness, he had one of the prisoners put my car in the garage, and another to assist me in unloading my baggage. He invited me into his private office where he asked me a number of routine questions concerning my age, nationality, education on a card in accordance with his duty. He then read me the camp rules, and told me I was to get ready for a bath, giving me a black linen face towel, a bath towel of much lighter shade, and a cake of ivory soap. The bathroom, by the way, is not any too elaborate. The furnishings consist of a mirror, a shelf, a wash basin on a stand, and a bath tub. There is no running water in the place, a grave inadequacy, as I shall point out later. A fellow prisoner brought in two buckets of tepid water for the bath tub, making about three inches of depth. One could do little splashing around in such a parsimonious allotment of water; but so far as I was concerned, that mattered little at the time, as I had enjoyed the rich luxury of a shower just before leaving home. Inspection Waived
Upon completion of the bath I gave two taps on the bathroom door in accordance with directions. This was a pre-arranged signal to the superintendent that I was ready for inspection and for the application of insecticide. I might mention that the superintendent very politely waived the inspection and the application of the insect poison in my case, largely on the assumption, I suppose, that the material and the time employed in the ceremony would be largely wasted. Next came the assignment of a bed, just after I had exchanged my watch for a receipt, and the watch placed in an iron safe. Most of the beds were double deckers, but there chanced to be a single one near a window. This choice was important, as there is no cross ventilation in the room, a serious architectural blunder. However, the cool breezes of the later evening were soon coming through the aperture with assuring comfort; and while the sleeping room in general was disagreeably warm, I was experiencing no distress. Smells Disinfectant
I shall not remember that night, with mingled feelings. The sheets on the bed appeared to be immaculately clean, but they gave out a strong odor of disinfectant, suggesting throughout the night the little lives that possibly had been sacrificed on the altar of medical science. An imagined itching now and then made me wonder if the sacrifice had been complete. Fortunately, the happenings outside provided a diversion. Throughout the night, at waking intervals, I heard the sound of the nocturnal whirpool, now close at hand and then far away, sometimes scarcely distinguishable as it came from the heart of a neighboring forest.

Occasionally there was the ghost-like "who-hoo-hoo" of the horned owl, perched somewhere on a distant tree. But the best was reserved for the early morning, just before the break of day. I was entertained by a veritable bird concert, coming from nature's grand stand in the forest across the way from my window. I am not enough of an ornithologist to identify all of the musical sounds coming from that forest; but I am reasonably sure that meadow larks, bobolinks, robin,orioles, blue jays, brown thrush and catbirds were among the ambitious and meritorious songsters. Cook Is Up Early
I awakened early—possibly at 5:30—and proceeded to get up, wash, shave, and dress. The camp cook, doing fourteen days because he had imbibed too much intoxicating liquor, had already preceded me. Arrived in his white chef's cap, he was assiduously preparing breakfast. When I asked him for some water with which to wash, he very kindly dipped some up in a bucket, remarking, "You see, we don't have things very handy around here." Inspects Gardens
I walked around the grounds, inspected the gardens, examined with some minuteness the 1-story, brown shingled camp house in which I had spent the night, and then at the dining table, I settled down to some reading, taking up Laski's essay "The Academic Mind." While I was in the midst of this, 6:30 had arrived, the superintendent was up, and had called in a raucous voice through the two dormitories, "Roll out." Within 15 minutes, in accordance with the rules, the other four inmates were in the dining room ready for breakfast. We sat down, the superintendent at the head, at a table covered with oil cloth, and had a breakfast consisting of wheat cakes, fried eggs, and coffee without cream. An innocent pitcher in the center of the table, I soon discovered, contained only skimmed milk. But when it is considered that the superintendent has not a very large appropriation for food—the amount spent is about 10 or 11 cents per meal—there could be no luxurious complaint. The lack of luxurious food was compensated for to a certain extent by the skill of the cook, whose temporary services the camp was fortunate to have. The meal was unusual in at least two respects: there were no napkins and no conversation. The appropriation does not include napkins, and Rule 8 reads, "necessary conversation only is permitted at the table." Kangaroo Court
Breakfast over, the superintendent, as a joke, held a kangaroo court of the inmates, and seriously announced that there had been one violation of the rules. I referred to me, of course, for I had ignored Rule 6 by getting up at 5:30. This rule says that "All men must remain in their beds until roll call signal. From that signal 15 minutes is the time limited for straightening out all coats and to wash and dress." No comment was made by the inmate members, whereupon the superintendent said he would have to overlook the violation this time. Brooker took me for a morning inspection of his 160 acres of forest land across the road to the north of the camp. It is a magnificent piece of earth. We saw many splendid trees of wonderful form and proportions: pines—white, Norway, and Scotch—sugar and soft maple, elm, red and white oak, white and black ash, hickory, and beech. We saw several June berry trees which easily yielded up their fruit. Allowing towering above many neighbors, the trunks and branches were so lithe and slender that the trees could be bent over, and the red berries, sweet and edible, could be picked from the very top. I saw the wild orange-colored tiger lilies and the wild mint with its purple flowers, all growing in abundance. I was told that with the approach of later summer the country side would be adorned with goldenrod. The spot is a paradise of animals, trees and flowers, and a shrine of natural beauty. Men Know Duties
When we returned from our walk, the three prisoners in addition to the cook and myself, were out in the field cultivating the garden. The superintendent called my attention to the fact that it was not necessary for him to stand over the men; that each man knew his duties and performed them

Paving Work on Morrison Street To Start Friday

Light Grading Being Completed by Koepke Construction Company

Paving of five blocks on N. Morrison street is expected to start Friday by the Koepke Construction company. The street is to be paved with concrete between Wisconsin avenue and Hancock street. The heavy grading was started last week and the light grading is being completed at the present time. Laying of forms was to start yesterday or this morning. The construction company expects to start paving operations on Packard street when the Morrison street work is finished. Ravina place and S. Lawe street also will be paved. WPA crews are busy with replacing the curb and gutter on College avenue. Work was started yesterday on the removal of the old curb and gutter on the south side of the avenue between Superior and Walnut streets. The avenue will be resurfaced between Drew and Story streets when the new curb and gutter has been completed.

Show Interest in Pavilion Plans

Layout for Proposed Erb Park Structure Draws Favorable Comment

Considerable interest in being shown in the tentative plans for the proposed Erb park pavilion being displayed at the Unumuth Drug store on E. Wisconsin avenue. General approval of the plans is being expressed, although remarks are accompanied with a number of suggestions. On the principal suggestions advanced by a number of persons is that some provision should be made to accommodate bands. A shell-like structure could be to either side of the pavilion, some state. Tentative plans for the structure have been drawn up so that the type of building and its cost may be determined before the common council sets the 1937 budget. The group backing the movement for the pavilion is hopeful that it will be constructed in time for use next summer. One main room which can be used for a dining hall or for dancing is shown in the tentative plans. A kitchen and lavatories also are included in the building which will be one story high. donated by kind-hearted and philanthropic citizens and public libraries. I noticed some books that bore the stamp of the Appleton public library. The camp gets them when they are too old for general circulation or when the bindings are becoming badly worn. Here are some titles that I jotted down: "Fables," "Leading American Inventors," "Dana," "Two Years Before the Mast," and "Hornblow," "The End of the Game."

I was not present in the camp long enough to make a detailed critical analysis looking toward its improvement. Lloyd Brooker is a former sheriff of Oneida county. knows his business, and understands the technique of getting along with people. I would suggest to those who have control of the institution that they install some inside plumbing and put in a shower bath. These conveniences should be considered, not for the purpose of making the institution more attractive, but in the interest of cleanliness. Just a little expenditure would take this Outagamie County penal camp out of the seventeenth century. NOW I EAT LOBSTER

Alfonsi 'Reign' As House Speaker

Termed Success

Assemblyman From Iron County Was Second Youngest to Hold Post

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The Wisconsin assembly frequently elects one of its youngest members to preside over its deliberations. The 1937 session of the legislature was no exception.

The first important act of the assembly last January was the election of an energetic, stocky, ambitious and young assemblyman from Iron county, Paul R. Alfonsi, to be its speaker. For the succeeding six months of the wrangling session, Speaker Alfonsi was the acknowledged "boss" of the house, the second youngest in its history, and one of the most successful.

Alfonsi won the speakership through what may be termed a political "fluke." His opponent was Victor W. Nehs of Neillsville, also a Progressive, who had rallied behind him a few old line Progressives, most of the Democrats and all the Republicans in the house. The contest was close, and with only three more names left for the clerk to call, it was apparent that the vote would be tied. But one member, C. A. Beggs of Rice Lake, who had cast his ballot for Nehs, counted incorrectly, and anxious to be on the winning side, changed his vote and cast it for Alfonsi.

An Independent Alfonsi as speaker has several claims for attention. First he is the first person of Corsican descent to serve in the legislature, and the first to be chosen for high office in Wisconsin. He is but one generation removed from the island which calls its most famous son Napoleon Bonaparte. He is also one of the few Progressives in the house who is independent, and who dares to take the administration to task for its vagaries.

He is now 28 years of age, and deserted high school teaching in 1932 for politics. Picking up considerable debating experience in northern high school competition and in college, he is now one of the most effective leaders in the legislature. He is the acknowledged Progressive leader in the lower house, and during the past session, when Progressive leadership was notably lacking, was forced frequently to leave his rostrum to join in floor debate.

Didn't Like It A member of the Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation, he gave signs in the closing weeks of the session that he was not too well pleased with the administration's policy on important bills. He fought the move for adjournment and warned that Governor LaFollette would have to explain that action to the voters. He also denounced the governor and his legislative aides for "playing politics" with doubtful senators on the relief appropriation for northern counties. Alfonsi and Senator Philip Nelson of Maple, both ambitious in the same congressional district, had introduced separate relief bills. Alfonsi wanted $1,000,000, Nelson $750,000. Nelson's bill was passed and Alfonsi's ignored.

According to the speaker, the administration favored the Nelson bill in order to keep its author, a Republican, in line on Progressive legislation.

He is Ambitious Like most other men who have been assembly speakers, Alfonsi sought that office because he is ambitious. After three terms in the assembly, he is now planning a campaign for congress in the tenth district against B. J. Gehrmann, the incumbent. According to Progressive observers, he stands a good chance of realizing his aim.

At present, while he waits for Governor LaFollette to call the special session, the speaker is a CIO organizer in the iron mines of his home district.

GOVERNOR'S BABY

Austin, Tex. (U)—Sam Houston Alfred, infant son of Gov. and Mrs. James V. Alfred, soon will drink his milk from a silver cup used by eight children of his namesake—Gen. Sam Houston, first president of the Republic of Texas.

The cup was given the executive's child, born in March, by the Houston family. The Alfred baby was born in the Sam Houston four-story bed in the governor's mansion.

Wire Operator To Have New Job

George A. Stewart, Telegraph Man at Junction, Is Transferred

George A. Stewart, 1336 W. Second street, telegraph operator for the Chicago and North Western railway at Appleton Junction the last 20 years, has been assigned to a new position at Oakfield, officials announced this morning.

Mr. Stewart has accepted the new post and a successor has not been named. Before coming to Appleton, he worked for the company at Janesville, Watertown, the general office in Chicago and Dodgeville.

He expects to leave Appleton in about two weeks.

Paul L. Hackbert, 405 W. Prospect street, agent at the junction the last 20 years, will assume the post of passenger and freight agent at Oakfield Monday. The recent pension for railroad employees is considered a direct cause of the many changes in personnel being made by railway companies.

Award Contract For Resurfacing On Two Streets

Council Gives Job to
Charles Green and Son,
Inc., for $44,840

The common council at a special meeting this morning awarded Charles Green and Son, Inc., the contract for resurfacing College avenue and Washington street. The avenue will be resurfaced between Drew and Story streets and Washington street between Oneida and Superior streets.

Cold mix asphalt, type J, will be used at a cost of $1.18 per square yard, and the mayor and clerk were authorized to sign the contract for $44,840. The contract was let so that paving preparations may immediately be started.

It was decided not to use relief labor on the job as most of the men now are employed on a WPA project. Use of relief labor also would prolong the work as they work only a limited number of hours a month. It was brought out.

City Attorney Harry P. Hoefel explained a point of law that had been raised when bids were opened. He said in cases where patented material is used the company must file with the city clerk a statement of the price at which it would furnish any contractor with the material before bids are opened.

This had not been done by any contractor on the paving project, he said, but he felt that the spirit of the law had been complied with. The purpose of the statute is to encourage competitive bids, he explained and said that the low bidder entered did not state whether any patented material would be used. The bid followed all specifications asked for by the city, he stated.

The question has proved a problem in some states, while the supreme court of Wisconsin had never rendered a decision in the matter, he said.

Michigan Girl Taken in Chicago

Girl Postal Clerk Is Charged With Embezzlement

Chicago —(P)—Apprehension of Miss Dorothy M. Early, 21, a Marengo, Mich., postal clerk, was disclosed yesterday when she was arrested before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker as a fugitive from charges of embezzling $3,200 in money order funds.

Postal Inspector G. F. McGrath, who arrested the girl in a south side hotel Saturday, said she admitted the charges and told him the money had been spent for "drinks and parties."

Commissioner Walker ordered her returned to Marengo. She was held in the Cook county jail pending the signing of a removal order by a federal judge today.

McGrath described Miss Early's alleged embezzlement as an alteration of applications for money orders. He said the amounts were reduced and the difference pocketed, with the alterations beginning in April, 1936, about a year after the girl acquired her position.

The girl told him she began to take the money when she found her salary insufficient for her needs, the postal inspector reported.

He said postal authorities in Washington dispatched several letters to the Marengo postmaster, calling attention to discrepancies in the money order funds, and that Miss Early admitted intercepting these letters. She fled from Marengo July 10, when the books were ordered sent to Washington.

Paper Mills Use Huge Amount of Soft Coal

Madison —(P)—Early Bryan of Chicago, representing the Wisconsin Paper and Pulp Manufacturers Association, testified at a public service commission hearing today that 64,683 tons of soft coal were shipped to association mills by rail and water in 1935.

Bryan indicated the paper mills would make formal application to the commission for reduction in carrier charges. The commission called the hearing now in its third day, to consider possible revision of rates on transporting coal.

Bryan said soft coal was mined in the Fox River valley, totaled 253,333 tons last year, to Wisconsin River valley points 218,243 tons, and to northern district mills, 135,257 tons. He said about 40,000 tons of the 64,683 total were shipped by rail direct from the midwestern coal fields. The rest was sent partly by water and partly by rail.

Wind Change Checks Grass Fire. Saves Buildings on Farm

Waupaca —(P)—An abrupt change in wind direction about noon today saved buildings on the Joe Polly farm from a grass fire that swept nearly three acres of city owned land at Waupaca.

Sparks from a blaze at the dumpsite started the grass fire. Several lots in the cemetery were burned over as the flames began their rapid spread.

The size of the blaze, coupled with a 10-minute alarm that resulted when the city fire siren jammed, brought a large crowd to the scene. Automobiles, driven through the cemetery toward the fire, broke a number of pipes cut off the water supply there.

Americans Flee To U.S. Embassy During Battle

ilities will be on a major scale and encompass all of China."

The fighting, intermittent since July 7 in the contest between China and Japan for economic domination of the Hopch-Chahar provinces, burst into major scale warfare when the Chinese troops ignored two Japanese ultimatums. Instead of evacuating Peiping and its suburbs they entrenched themselves and criss-crossed the city with formidable barricades.

The battle actually was a series of isolated engagements in a Japanese attempt to encircle the city. Other clashes occurred at Tungchow, 12 miles to the east, Huayian to the north and Wanpinghsien, a western suburb.

The Chinese claimed capture of several villages and considerable Japanese war material. Japanese admitted loss of one bomber of a squadron of 45. They said it was forced down in a hail storm.

U. S. Private Wounded
At Washington the navy announced today that Private Julius F. Fliszar of the mounted marine detachment at Peiping had been wounded by unaimed rifle fire from Chinese troops barricaded near the United States embassy.

Fliszar, a gunshot wound in the side, was being treated at the corps hospital, the navy report said. His condition was described as not serious.

The navy report said Fliszar was shot while notifying American nationals to go to the legation quarter for greater safety.

The barricade from which the "unaimed rifle fire" came was located in the report at Hotamen street, outside the legation quarter.

Colonel John Marston, commandant of the marine guard, later reported 249 American nationals were being cared for by the marines in the embassy compound.

The Americans, residents of Peiping, went to the embassy for protection. They are living in tents the marines pitched on the embassy grounds.

Joseph C. Grew, United States ambassador to Japan, urged at Tokyo that the conflict be prevented from spreading. A Domei (Japanese) news agency report said a joint American, British, French and Italian appeal had been made to the Japanese embassy in Peiping that the legation quarter be excluded from the war zone.

Tientsin, China —(P)—Chinese mortar fire tonight forced four Japanese munitions ships to turn back from the mouth of the Hai Ho river after attempting to reach Tangku, port of this Japanese military headquarters in the undeclared war between China and Japan.

Westward, sanguinary fighting, with conflicting claims of success, made an all-day battlefront of the Peiping area.

At the Hai Ho mouth, Chinese troops opened fire from the banks as soon as the four Japanese steamers turned in sight. After they had hove back into the gulf of Chihli, Japanese cutters appeared, returned the Chinese fire, and escorted a transport safely into Tangku.

Then the Japanese command warned all shipping to take shelter pending punitive activities on sea and land. Japanese troops moved up to drive the Chinese from Taku on the opposite bank of the river from Tangku.

The two places are about 25 miles east of Tientsin.

The Japanese high command claimed complete occupation of the Chinese barracks at Nanyuan, a stronghold in the Peiping defenses south of the former capital.

They asserted that superior Japanese artillery and aviation proved the deciding factors in a bitter battle in which the Chinese yielded two undisputed key positions north of Peiping.

Chinese reports that their 29th army took Fengtai, Japanese military base south of Peiping, and recaptured Langfang were denied by the Japanese.

They admitted, however, that a Chinese attempt to surround Langfang, which commands the Japanese military railroad line midway between here and Peiping, necessitated hasty reinforcements there.

Japanese headquarters declared the front line was "without any modifications" and the Peiping area is "comparatively quiet." It reported only occasional Chinese artillery bombardments of Japanese positions.

The Chinese, nevertheless, made late claims to the capture of seven Japanese air bombers and the Chaohiatung military aidrome, south of Peiping.

Tungchow May Fall
They declared also that capture of Tungchow, east of Peiping and north of Tientsin, was imminent.

Tungchow is the capital of the East Hopch autonomous regime, a Japanese "puppet state." Chinese officers asserted that the Tungchow garrison had rebelled against the Japanese.

Against Chinese reports that an important railroad bridge was blown up at Yangtsun, on the Tientsin-Peiping line, Japanese said they were occupying the station.

Reliable foreign sources estimated that the Chinese quickly could call about 420,000 troops to the scene.

STRIKE SYMPATHIZERS JEER WORKERS

These three women strike sympathizers at the Robins dry dock in Brooklyn expressed their sentiments vociferously when non-striking workers left the premises. Scores of police were on hand to maintain order when the shifts changed.

Dismiss Parking Charge Against Kimberly Driver

Kaukauna —(P)—A charge of illegal parking against Arnold Van Thull, Kimberly baker, was dismissed Monday night by Justice of Peace Barney Mitchka, who held the first night court session in many years.

Van Thull, who was arrested July 9 by police at Little Chute, pleaded not guilty to the charge when he appeared there and his attorney filed a writ of prejudice against Justice of Peace Willard Van Handel at Little Chute.

The case was brought to municipal court at Appleton, but was recommended to justice court at Kaukauna.

Only one witness appeared and his evidence was ruled insufficient by the court. A crowd jammed the Kaukauna justice court but they were disappointed when the case was dismissed by Justice Mitchka for lack of evidence after 25 minutes.

Can't Control Strike With Club, Says Speaker

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. —(P)—Sheriff Thomas Wolcott of Flint, Mich., told delegates to the annual convention of the Michigan Sheriffs' association yesterday that real labor disputes had demonstrated "a strike cannot be controlled with a club."

Wolcott, whose department helped Flint police and national guard troops maintain order during the General Motors strike, termed the sit-down technique "not only a new weapon in the hands of an organized minority in labor, but also a new and perplexing problem with us."

"We had to use our own good judgment," the sheriff said, "as our duties were not necessarily to break the strikes, but to maintain law and order and to remain in a neutral position."

The Peiping front from the central government army and armies in and bordering on the Hopch-Chahar provinces. The central government, they said, also possesses 300 first class fighting planes at scattered bases throughout China.

The Japanese were said to have concentrated 18,000 or 20,000 soldiers in the Tientsin-Peiping area with sufficient reserve guard strength to throw all their effective forces into battle at once. About 90 Japanese planes have been collected here.

The Japanese active army last year numbered 242,600 troops and 15,000 officers.

Foreshadowing swift extension of Japan's aerial warfare, additional Japanese aviation officers flew here today from Japan to organize a general air corps headquarters.

The Nanyuan barracks, Japanese military communications declared, were demolished by a combined mass aerial bombardment and all-day artillery pounding which took a heavy toll of Chinese lives.

Reinforcements of Japanese troops, equipment and supplies, meanwhile, poured into Tientsin by rail from the east and south.

Six men in an automobile fired a volley over Clones houses before they sped away.

While one Free State customs post went up in flames a dozen men kept up a continuous fire for about 15 minutes.

At Newry, which is in Free State territory, armed men held back police with a machine gun. After setting fire to the customs post they went to a nearby farmhouse, ordered out the nightgowned occupants, and set fire to the dwelling.

The damage from various fires along the frontier was placed unofficially at $50,000. Quantities of official papers and records were destroyed.

Announce Army Meeting
In one section of Belfast posters announced a meeting of the illegal Irish republican army to protest the king's visit.

Armored cars hurried to the scene of the proposed meeting, but no members of the organization appeared. Houses in the district were searched for weapons.

Constables patrolled the area with rifles on their shoulders. Normally they do not carry arms.

Free State police, rushed from Dublin to the frontier, searched all cars crossing the border. Hundreds of officers were on duty on both sides of the line.

A series of arrests followed the outbreaks. Several members of the republican army were arrested at Belfast last night. Five men seized on the highway between Londonderry and Omagh appeared in special court at Omagh and were held without bail on charges of acting in a manner prejudicial to peace. Police said they carried revolvers and a wirecutters.

"As Democratic national chairman," he was asked, "you say you are for Duffy for reelection, but what will the president and the party do as between Democrats and Progressives in the state election?"

"Frankly," Farley said, "I don't think it wise to discuss a state situation a year in advance. But I'll be willing to take the ball and carry it when the time comes."

Farley declared "the country is in a better condition than it has been in a generation" and praised President Roosevelt as the "greatest character this nation has ever seen."

Among the notables at the speakers table with Farley were Charles E. NEA Pledges Fight Against Closed Shop

Chicago —(P)—The National Editorial association, consisting of non-metropolitan weekly and daily newspapers, pledged today to join a committee representing 11 other publishers' organizations in opposing the closed shop proposal of the American Newspaper Guild.

President W. W. Loomis of LaGrange, Ill., said the board of directors had selected him and an executive secretary to represent the association on the publishers' committee formed at a meeting here June 29.

Loomis said "a militant legislative program to battle for freedom of the press from unwarranted attacks on advertising and circulation" was being drafted.

He added that the N. E. A. supported a resolution adopted by representatives of the national and regional publishers' groups, opposing "the closed shop proposal or any other form of closed shop for those who prepare and edit news copy and pictures for newspapers."

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Have a Heart

Lippman

Before one can discuss the merits of the Fair Labor Standards bill, it is necessary to ask ourselves whether we are in a fit condition to discuss its merits. No one would ask a runner who had just finished a marathon to run another marathon before he had even had a chance to sit down and catch his breath; yet congress, which is hot and tired from a session that has gone on since January, which has had its mind fixed intently on constitutional and political questions for six months, is being asked to consider, debate and enact the most complicated economic proposals since the original N. R. A.

What the administration needs most of all at this moment is not prophets, crusaders, and statesmen; it needs the homely advice of an intelligent family physician. I suppose that Mr. Roosevelt is reasonably comfortable in the air-cooled offices of the White House and on his yacht over the week ends. But the average senator and representative lives under physical conditions which preclude fresh and clear thinking at this time of year. He can go through the motions of legislating. He can manage a routine. But it is just impossible that he should be able to bring to the study of this bill his full powers of analysis and judgment. That is why Mr. Roosevelt needs the advice of a family physician. He needs to be reminded of the obvious rules of physical and mental hygiene, that tired men, who do not get enough sleep, who are fed up with public affairs, are incapable of dealing with such a complicated matter at the fog end of a Washington summer.

For let there be no mistake about it, this bill is a very complicated measure. It sets up a board of five men who are to make decisions affecting wages, hours, children, youths, apprentices, the physically and mentally handicapped in any industry or trade or service that the board thinks is in interstate commerce.

According to Senator Black's report "this bill does not contain any delegation of legislative power." The committee has sought to decide every question that calls for a decision by congress on legislative policies. If this were true, and manifestly it is not true, this bill would decide all the complex questions arising out of the competition among various regions of the country, and among the nations of the world. If the bill did really attempt to decide these questions, surely it ought at least to be thoroughly considered by congress and by the country at a time when men can give their attention to it. If what Senator Black says of his own bill were true, it would be little short of an outrage to think of passing it in a hurry at this session.

If, on the other hand, the bill, as I believe, is nothing but another vast delegation of power to another presidential board, it certainly ought not to be passed until public opinion has had a chance to understand it. To pass it now would be in effect to give Mr. Roosevelt new, vast, and undefined powers without letting the country realize what had been done.

The attempt to aggrandize the personal power of the president by slickness and indirection has been defeated with the destruction of the Maverick Judiciary bill. The attempt to aggrandize his power over industry by taking advantage of the weariness of congress and the inattention of the country should certainly be defeated at this time.

For if this is a good measure, it can wait until January. Even if it is urgent, it can wait until October. It can wait until congress has had a rest, until the leaders of opinion in this country have come back from their vacations. It can wait until men are prepared to study it and are in a mood to debate it.

A PACKED LABOR COURT

For some months now complaints have been made by employers that the National Labor Relations Board, charged with the enforcement of the Wagner Act is loaded with stools of John L. Lewis.

Charges, of course, can be made as easily as words can arise to the lips of angered men, but when those charges are likewise made by disinterested commentators, and further fortified by the declaration of board members indicating a prejudice and partisanship beyond understanding, then it is time to take notice in a serious way.

The President appointed the members of this board. But will he even deny that Mr. Lewis didn't name them?

We find, for instance, that David J. Saposs, an industrial adviser to the board, was an associate of the Brookwood Labor College, a close friend of the Communist leader, William Z. Foster, and an author too of a book entitled "Left Wing Unionism" which indorsed the doctrines of both Foster and Stalin as to the desirability of Reds "boring from within."

Think of putting a man like that on a court, and of all things a labor court, for the N.L.R.B., vested with great discretion, is a court in the sense that it has judicial functions. Senator Nyc, who worked and voted for the Wagner Act, and throughout his public life had been a man so partial to labor's cause as to create comment, has thus addressed himself concerning the board:

"It has disqualified itself as a referee between management and workers. . . . We cannot try any industrial dispute before a kangaroo court and expect either satisfactory results or public approval. . . . Friends of labor who hail the obvious partisanship of the N.L.R.B. should bear in mind that it is quite possible that we will see a day when another governmental body of the same type will use its tremendous power to oppress labor. Governmental partisanship can do nothing but increase bitterness, promote discord, awaken cries of unfairness and destroy the great hope of economic advancement at a time when such destruction would certainly bring disaster."

That is about the worst indictment against the board that could be made. Senator Nye, like those other splendid liberals of the Wheeler, Borah, McCarran and O'Mahoney type, is too intelligent and alert to permit the "boring in" to use liberalism as a means of destroying democracy. The President is not so particular in this regard or has been more easily duped.

In the meantime the board is wrecking the possibility of continuing to function. Not only employers but American Federation of Labor leaders are accusing this board of being practically a sideshow for the CIO.

Employers will not accept in good grace any recommendations of this Board. They will flout its authority whenever the opportunity arises. Even though the board may have in many instances the law behind it its decrees can only be accepted, if this condition of affairs continues, to the same extent that litigants will accept the judgments of a jurist who has been fixed.

If this country really wants a sweet taste of civil war let us pack the courts all the way through the way this board has been packed.

The country has had other labor boards. It has had boards headed by such men as Senator Wagner, Lloyd Garrison and Robert Taft, liberals all, but respected and dependable men.

AN ODD SUBJECT: THE WEATHER

Dante tells of meeting a tortured soul on his rambles through the infernal regions who said the terrible heat by which he found himself engulfed would have been bearable had he not constantly thought of the gurgling sound of the cool waters that tossed and tumbled past his former and earthly abode.

For a little while, at least, those who walk our terrestrial sphere have an advantage over the lost soul that communed with Dante. However high the thermometer soars, however humid and stifling the day may be, the knowledge that the winds will shortly shift to the north instead of making the weather even more unbearable makes it possible and passable. Hope is a great factor in every tough situation. Perhaps its absence is what makes hell.

SCLEROSIS OF THE BRAIN IN TYRANTS

Twelve years ago the present Russian despot speaking before the 14th All-Union Communist party congress said:

"A policy of shedding blood is dangerous and contagious; one cuts off a head today, tomorrow another, and the day after tomorrow a third—then what remains of the party?"

Stalin was not thinking so much of the party as of the staggering defeats communism has always taken and which intellectuals in Red ranks have attributed to harsh and sullen policies, violent and ugly moods, and, above everything, death for the slightest disagreement.

Reds have always said that the French revolution of 1789 failed because stark murder stalked the land, hollow-eyed, black-fanged, reptilian. They were going to perform the next venture on a more humane basis. Yes, there would be some necessary violence and bloodshed at the outset and while the aristocrats were being removed, but after that the virtues of the regime would make it into a smiling lamb and harsh remedies would become taboo.

Here we see the chasm between men's weak words and their ruthless acts. They will promise everything good and kind to get to power and do anything mean and contemptible to stay there.

But it also shows the mental deterioration that follows in men who are given unrestrained power. From the kindly debater seeking to convince his opponent the tyrant turns into an arrogant autocrat, hateful of opposition, resentful of the slightest difference of opinion or disobedience.

The tyrant in any land is a perversion of nature and as detestable in the eyes of Heaven as well as man.

But, worse still, the longer he holds his power the more flagrantly he may be depended upon to tread upon the rights of others. Unrestricted power warps the mind in leprosy manner, chills the heart and destroys the reason.

Stalin learned, and once preached, moderation with those who were following the painful process of attempting to build a nation. But he has abandoned that course. And the abandonment indicates a tottering of his mental processes as well as a tremor running throughout the entire Soviet makeup.

IN PRAISE OF SONG

The musically-inclined acquaint us with the fact, through the periodicals devoted to their interests, that community singing is gaining in popularity throughout the States.

Band concerts, the performance of capable orchestras in many cities, are enlivened by the vocal efforts of audiences.

Song is good for the soul. We need it. Four hundred years ago an Englishman, William Byrd, had something to say about its virtues. He wrote:

"Reasons briefly set down by the author, to persuade every one to learn to sing:

First, it is a knowledge easily taught, and quickly learned, where there is a good Master, and an apt Scholar.

2. The exercise of singing is delightful to Nature, and good to preserve the health of Man.

Opinions Of Others

BACK TO THE MISSING LINK

The pendulum of thought about man's evolution promises another swing. The first theory saw one continuous series, each ape or ape-man leading to another and better one in one steady upward climb. On that idea opponents of Darwin and Huxley dared them to produce the Missing Link. Then came discovery or recognition of many kinds of fossil man, notably unlike the Ape-Man of Java, the English Pithecanthropus, the British Heidelberg jaw, the almost modern Rhodesian man of Africa, the ogre-like Neanderthal. To fit all these varied creatures into steps of one ascending family seemed hopeless. Evolutionists turned to the idea of branching pathways instead of one ascending staircase. In 1927 a Swedish geologist working a few miles from Peking found a single fossil tooth. By a far-fetched but brilliant guess, the late Professor Davidson Black, of Peking Union Medical college, called this tooth evidence of a new species of man. Since then head on face bones of at least twenty other individuals have been found, including five more or less complete skulls. Dr. Franz Weidenreich, professor at Peking University, has just reported on the three of these skulls found last year. His most surprising conclusion is that Peking Man was not a remote and collateral cousin of modern man but a true link, no longer missing, but a link in the chain in this same evolutionary line. Dr. Weidenreich's skill, his specimens and his opportunity are unquestioned. If his conclusions stand the test of criticism, the swing back to a one-line theory of evolution has begun.

The greatest mystery will remain that of when and how man got his bulging brain. Characters of the five Peking skulls vary from about 900 to about 1200 cubic centimeters. That of the modern man is about 1500 cubic centimeters. That of Cro-Magnon man was larger. Modern skulls are shrinking, but still average well over 1500 cubic centimeters. Between Peking Man and Neanderthal Man something happened to equip the species with 200 or 300 cubic centimeters of extra brain; probably all of it in the forebrain with which the species thinks. What that something was is still a big gap in the story. It is not a weakening link.—New York Herald Tribune.

FRANTIC for a first-day subject, Jonah paved the way with his all-inclusive "Lesson for Stoo" as of Monday's sheet. I've known Jonah for many years and really, folks, he's not half as bad as you think he is and I hope he didn't scare you as he did me.

Your "hot-headed letters" will be welcomed with open arms and closed eyes and they won't make me mad. I can assure you that all printed contributions with signatures other than mine will have been prepared by other persons because I will have my hands full keeping this thing going with what few scattered comments I may wish to exploit for public perusal.

Jonah's warning not to be in for telephone calls is well intended but I've no choice in the matter. Not being an ardent golf fan, I have no place to which I can retreat in safety. Speaking of golf, a local garage owner, who pelts a mean pill, is probably one of the fastest golfers in the country. He combines his long legs and energetic habits in a swift round which wears down the most southeasted Scot.

At any rate, with my intention to "run the thing" my "own way" and with the help of Ezekial, Mrs. C. W., the Shadow, Kutz, D. Grade Pulp, Dee Jay Cee and all other contributors, I think we can make a go of it while Jonah is touring the country the next two weeks.

Jonah tells me he is including Maine in his itinerary. Probably to meet the other fellow who voted for Landon. You know, the Republican presidential candidate.

What with all this labor organization, I am instituting a "consumers union." Why not? Labor organizes and demands higher wages, labor gets higher wages and companies tack a few cents on to the retail price of their products and consumers are the well-known "goats." It's logical enough for the buying public to band together and voice their unified sentiments, whatever they may be.

The United States Navy abandoned the search for Amelia Earhart and her companion, Captain Frederick J. Noonan, who disappeared July 2 somewhere in the Pacific ocean. Several hundred thousand dollars were spent to scour an expanse of 250,000 square miles in an effort to locate the "just for fun" fliers.

The paper that day reported five drownings in the state. (Need more be said?)

THE TELEPHONE IN THE HOSPITAL CORRIDOR

No telephone vibrates with such extremes of joy and sorrow as this certain one. Here brave new fathers voice their happy dreams:

Here hushed tones murmur that a life is done. Joy trembles in the voice when Fate reprieves The soul that almost pierced the final gloom. One moment the fire sizzles, the next it grieves. This phone spells hope, and it pronounces doom.

Now it is my turn! Back of me there stands A shadowy procession, close to tears. Who stood like me, breathless, with shaking hands, And held the telephone to anxious ears.

PROPHYLAXIS AGAINST MALARIA

Travelling from Mexico city up to Orizaba recently, secure in the knowledge that we were immunized against smallpox and against typhoid and paratyphoid A and B, we were much disturbed when a medical friend observed in his berth a mosquito of the Anopheles breed. That is the breed of mosquito that carries malaria. The doctor recognized the critter by its characteristic position, body nearly perpendicular to the surface on which the mosquito alights. We were uneasy because we had not taken any quinine. Of course, not every Anopheles mosquito carries an assortment of malaria Plasmodia. Fortunately for us this one apparently had no specimens of the malaria organism with her on that trip. I say her, for it is the female of the species, never the male, that craves human blood.

Residents in districts known to be malarial may take the regular prophylactic dose of quinine, ten grains, daily and remain immune, but they can't keep this up indefinitely. Travellers or visitors who stay a few days or a few weeks may and should take their daily ten grains of quinine as long as they remain in the district.

Modifications or improvements on quinine have been introduced with the usual claims of superior therapeutic effectiveness and freedom from untoward by-effects, but on putting these newer remedies to the test of actual practice the results, again as usual, have borne out the promises made for the new medicine. One called plasmoquin too frequently produces toxic symptoms and even physicians use it only with special caution. Another called atabrine may prove more effective in the treatment of some cases of malaria where, for one reason or another, quinine is not applicable, but there is some uncertainty as yet concerning the toxic properties of this drug.

The prophylactic dose of quinine, ten grains a day, is merely the average dose suggested for adults. A child of ten years may take five grains a day. An adult taller or heavier than the average may take fifteen grains a day.

If chills and fever occur, of course, the treatment is a medical problem and should be prescribed by the physician who sees the patient and knows the conditions. Where no physician is available, perhaps the best plan is to give the patient ten grains of quinine every three hours for three doses daily—that is, 30 grains each day, as long as chills or fever continues or, perhaps, when the acute symptoms subside, the quinine should be continued in smaller daily doses for a period of six or eight weeks, say ten grains a day for fifty days.

Also a daily dose of ten grains of quinine will prevent the development of symptoms of malaria if one happens to have a run in with an Anopheles female who carries malarial organisms. For this reason it is wise to continue the daily dose of quinine for a month or more after leaving the malarial region.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tuberculosis

What are the symptoms of tuberculosis both externally and internally? I have had a peculiar feeling. (V. M.)

Answer—You are going at it in the wrong way. Instead of trying on assortments of job lots of symptoms, you should recite your symptoms to your doctor and leave it to the doctor to decide what, if anything, may be the matter. I'll send you a monograph on Tuberculosis if you ask for it and inclose a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address.

Anemia

Saw your ad on lack of oxygen causing headaches. Have all those symptoms. Where can I get the oxygen you speak of? (Mrs. E. M. M.)

Answer—One-fifth of the air of all outdoors is oxygen. Help yourself. For more concentrated oxygen you have to go to a physician.

Eruption

I am ashamed to go anywhere with the ugly eruptions on my face. (B. A.)

Answer—Send three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for instructions for treating blackheads and pimples—acne. (Copyright, 1937.)

Your Birthday

"LEO"

If July 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 11 a. m., from 3 to 5 p. m., and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 to 9 a. m., from 6 to 8 p. m., and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

Your actions on this date possibly will make you new friends or enemies, so keep careful control over them. Vision is liable to be responsible for many of the mistakes made on this day, especially in the failure to recognize people. Keep your eyes open, so you will avoid the possibility of slighting someone through the failure to speak to them. Be very careful what you write or sign for carelessness in this respect is liable to get you into hot water. Do boldly whatever you have to do, without signs of hesitation, for any evidence of timidity will weaken your position regarding some matter of importance.

Remember, true friends are comparatively few in number, and their real friendship can only be proven through actual tests. Do not mistake the spirit of sociability for that of devotion. Do not freely pour out your personal affairs. Married and engaged couples and love-smitten individuals must not discuss any grievances with outsiders, if they are not looking for trouble.

If a woman and July 29th is your birthday, you are probably quick of movement, light of foot, with a very delicate sense of successful career. You ought to be able to wear clothes with an exceptional amount of style. Be cautious how you reject advice, or undertake to do something you have very little actual knowledge about. Social welfare, educational, and secretarial work, as well as painting or short story writing, may furnish you the best opportunities to win a reputation and make heaps of money. Married life, it would seem, is the most logical one for you to lead.

The child born on July 29 frequently is either very artistic or a lover of things of a purely mechanical nature. Before it arrives at its majority it, in all likelihood, will have definitely decided upon the career it wishes to follow, and it ought to be permitted to do so.

If a man you perhaps have a pet ambition that is likely to be realized. Hold steadfast to the right principles, and your success ought to make you very proud of your accomplishments. Through architecture, warehousing, engineering, medicine, law, authorship, or preaching, a great reputation is likely to be won.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — The recent demise of Sir James M. Barrie, who wrote "Peter Pan," brings to light the interesting fact that almost without exception the upper-bracket writers in the London literary scene graduated to literature from the news rooms of Fleet Street newspapers.

Barrie began life as a journalist and his record of those days is set down in one of his loveliest, though not so well known, books—"My Lady Nicoline."

Kipling, who died within the last year, was a news scribe in India before becoming famous as a fictionist and a poet, and so was Gilbert Chesterton, who spent most of his life actively engaged in writing for the press. Up to the time of his death he never failed to turn in at least one column a week.

The king-pins of them all, of course, are Shaw and H. G. Wells, who, with Kipling, for years constituted the "big three" of English letters. Shaw began his career as a critic and went on from there to become world-famous as a cynic and a playwright. But Wells was a big man in letters before he ever wrote a line for the newspapers. He was the only one of that select British group who did not begin in the Fleet Street shops. That is, except the late John Galsworthy. Galsworthy was born rich; he had no need to work for his living.

The other day they tagged Enzo Fiermonte, a fancy dan of the prize ring, with a jail sentence for ignoring a traffic summons. And did that make good boys out of the Broadway crowd — well, two of them anyway. It wasn't 24 hours after Enzo received the bad news that a liveried chauffeur arrived in traffic court to pay a dollar fine for Milton Berle, the stage and radio comic. Berle was fined for parking his automobile in a restricted area opposite 49 West 50th street.

Then, five minutes later, Herman Shumlin, the producer, came legging it into court. He, too, forked over a buck, that being the damage levied against him by Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky for ignoring city traffic laws during a forgetful moment the day before.

Strangers wandering past that little leathery-smelling nook in 6th avenue will notice any number of used boxing gloves, baseball mitts, leather aprons hanging on the walls. To all the world it looks like a second-hand shop where one

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — News comes from Germany which strikes in us a sympathetic chord. The Hitler government has prohibited alarm clocks which play the "Horst Wessel song."

Back of that order undoubtedly is an unkind human interest story. But our guess is that some loyal nazi patriot was sleeping peacefully through the 7 a. m. hour when an alarm clock down the hallway began dingling off the Horst Wessel song. Instantly the loyal nazi must have bounded throbbing to his feet, throwing aside the sheets to stand, pajamas clad, with arm outstretched in salute, until the alarm clock dinged the ditty to an end.

On His Toes

Horst Wessel is a sort of national hero in Germany, like Sigfried, although his violent death a few years ago ended a private life that reputedly would have lifted American eyebrows from Boston to Burlington.

Such national appeal has the Horst Wessel song that the loyal nazi unquestionably flung aside his bed covers and leaped to a shouting salute on a second morning as the alarm clock let go. And perhaps, so fervent is the patriotism of loyal nazis, he leaped again on the third morning.

But on the fourth morning he got up with a grunt and his outflung salute was less solidly and he suggested to his local nazi leader that really the Horst Wessel song was too stirring a piece to bring a man up standing at 7 a. m. Well, this thing probably led to that and finally the protest against Horst Wessel alarm clocks got up high enough.

Our own strictly private feeling is that if some patriotic Yankee took to heart at 7 a. m. with an alarm clock playing the Star Spangled banner it would bring us to our feet in a very militaristic mind, deed and cause an immediate wastage of restful sleep among neighboring patriots.

Then Comes The Law

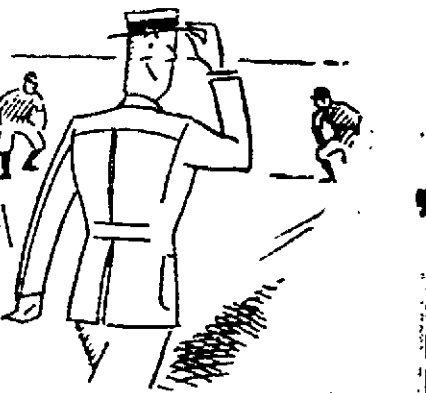

Incontestably the best hour to play the Horst Wessel song in Germany and the Star Spangled banner in America is 5 p. m. Then if the troops come marching by with a band a-playing, the national anthem causes the hackles to rise pleasantly on the back of the neck and a stiff-backed salute is at once a graceful response and a helpful exercise.

But that's the trouble with loyal patriots. They are forever wanting to play the Horst Wessel song or its kin at a time when less hyperthyroid but no less loyal patriots don't want to leap to a tingling salute. They endure it a few times but ultimately get mad about it and insist there ought to be a law. Ultimately there is a law.

Pioneer Recalls Early Days As Her 94th Birthday Nears

PIONEER days in the vicinity of Freedom and Wrightstown where she has lived nearly all her life are recalled by Mrs. Mary Swinkles, Kimberly, who will celebrate her ninety-fourth birthday anniversary next Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Peter Hofacker, Kimberly, where she now makes her home. A dinner will be served to the immediate family and guests next Sunday at the Hofacker home.

Mrs. Swinkles, who is blind lost her sight nine years ago through a fall. She was born in Ufel, Holland, in 1843, and came to this country with her parents at the age of three. The family settled in the town of Freedom and lived there for 48 years, later moving to Wrightstown where they lived for 41 years. She was married to Theodore Swinkles in July in 1868 at Freedom. The couple lived on a farm until the death of her husband at the age of 53. There were eight children of which three are living, Mrs. William Wydevon and Arnold Swinkles, Little Chute, and Mrs. Peter Hofacker, Kimberly. There are 22 grandchildren and 42 great grandchildren. Previous to coming to Kimberly and making her home with Mrs. Hofacker, Mrs. Swinkles lived with her son, Walter, at Wrightstown.

100 Years Old
The rocking chair which is her favorite resting place has come down through three generations and is over 100 years old. The chair is moved with Mrs. Swinkles wherever she decides to stay. "Grandma" as she is commonly called, relates how children of the earlier days wore wooden shoes to school and when she was a girl it was common for children to have two good dresses, both of denim, one for Sundays and the other for school wear.

Neighbors and friends from Kimberly as well as from nearby communities call on Mrs. Swinkles, spending many hours with her, listening to tales of long ago. She tells how her parents would walk from the farm to Green Bay, a distance of 18 miles, before the oxen days to carry home a sack of flour.

Travel by Oxen
Later when the family owned a team of oxen, she says, they would start for market day in Green Bay the evening before about sunset. After traveling all night the group would reach its destination about sunrise. Before reaching the city the family would pull up near a woods and prepare breakfast. There were no horses in those days and very few oxen, she recalls.

A treat which was looked forward to was Johnny cake, the usual item on the menu for weekends. Farm machinery at that time did not provide the means for crushing corn of the present day and it was necessary to hollow out a large stump to mash the corn. This was done by pounding it with a heavy mallet until it was fine. The finer part of the batch would be used for the Johnny cake and the coarser part for cornmeal mush.

Lawrence Scores New Deal Attack Of Lehman Stand

Sees Attempt to Drive Wedge Between President And New York Governor

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—President Roosevelt has plenty to worry about in discharging the multifarious duties of his office, but one of the chief thorns in his side must be the persons who set themselves up as spokesmen of the New Deal.

This becomes particularly evident as so-called New Deal spokesmen seek to drive a wedge between the president and his personal friend, Governor Lehman of New York. The fact that a man may have an honest and sincere conviction about a public question seems to strike these spokesmen as wholly impossible and, the moment an opinion is expressed which deviates even slightly from New Deal philosophy, the fires of hate and the buckets of smear paint are turned toward the individuals who have the temerity to assert their independence.

Governor Earle of Pennsylvania, who wants to succeed Mr. Roosevelt in the White House, was among the first to denounce Governor Lehman and to question his "liberalism" just because the New York governor did not agree with the president's court "packing" plan. Another New Deal spokesman wrote to several of the newspapers.

"The stab-in-the-back letter from Governor Lehman of New York to Senator Wagner urging the latter to oppose the president's judiciary reform bill is the work of a professional banker and an amateur politician."

"Incidentally, it serves President Roosevelt exactly right for having put his trust in the sort of man who charges that an honest, business-like administration of the state government is the same thing as advanced political liberalism."

Forget Achievements
Whatever advanced liberalism may be it certainly includes, nowadays, the technique of attributing questionable motives to your opponents and calling names. Governor Lehman was a great liberal last autumn and nobody on the New Deal side referred to him as a one-time investment banker but praised his achievements in behalf of labor and "the common people."

Today all the progressive achievements and constructive record of the New York governor are, according to these New Deal spokesmen, to be cast into the discard because Mr. Lehman expressed himself as a citizen in a letter to one of the two senators who represent New York state in congress.

The incident, however, is typical of the smear idea which has prevailed here ever since the New Deal began. The strategy applied to those who differed from the New Deal was always to attack them personally, to imply that they could not possibly be honest but must be the tool of some sinister interests.

Part of the game is to get people to write letters to the press accusing everybody who differs with the New Deal of somehow being an "economic royalist," or a product of wealth and luxury.

It never seems to have occurred to these critics that they must find some other name than "economic royalists" for at least 15,000,000 of the 17,000,000 who voted last autumn against the New Deal. For the latest available figures in income taxes showed that only approximately 2,000,000 persons earned enough money to pay income taxes. Certainly the 15,000,000 are persons who toil for a living and doubtless had some apprehension that the New Deal might have designs on our American system of constitutional government.

Use Smear Method
The smear campaign is usually handled by the Democratic national committee, which believes that politics permits it to violate all rules of fairness and yet that its own misadventures in circumventing the federal corrupt practices act are somehow blameless. Mr. Roosevelt is to some extent culpable for permitting the smear method to be used, for he himself has occasionally used epithets attributing improper methods to those who oppose him on public questions. But the disciples of the New Deal have learned the technique so well that they employ it against anybody no matter what his previous record.

Thus Senator Wheeler, liberal of liberals, has lately been the subject of bitter abuse by the so-called liberal spokesmen. The chief objection is that he happened to use his judgment independently of the New Dealers. It seems that a person who disagrees with the New Deal may do so privately but to make public his dissent is a high crime and misdemeanor in the code of so-called liberals.

Governor Lehman's misdeed, it seems, was that he let the public know how he felt about the supreme court plan and that he released his letter at the wrong time. Just why one who fights for a cause must conform to some rule laid down by persons on the other side when he wants his own contention to prevail is something of a mystery.

From now on some of the New Deal spokesmen will endeavor to make it appear that the persons who defeated the court "packing" plan in the senate were reactionaries or conservatives. This is a gross error. Men like Senators Wheeler, McCarran, O'Mahoney, King, Burke, Borah and Walsh of Massachusetts, for instance, do not become conservatives just because they want to see the spirit of the constitution preserved. It is wrong to class the group who defeated the court plan as "conservative Democrats." They might be called insurgent Democrats, but this implies that the Democratic party belongs to the New Deal, which may be open to question in the next primaries. The most appropriate designation is "independent Democrats," for this accurately describes the group of honorable and fearless statesmen who saved the constitution from the destructionists who call themselves "liberals" and New Dealers.

Dummy Allowed to Tell Declarer of His Rights

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I am not writing this letter for sympathy, but rather as a penance. I suppose all of us, at one time or another, have launched dream ships on a sea of glory, and imagined ourselves the heroes of the hour, receiving the plaudits of an admiring throng. But seldom does the opportunity occur to bring one of these dream ships home to port. My chance came in the hand below:

The bidding:
South West North East
3 spades Pass 3 no trump Pass
4 clubs Pass 4 no trump Pass
6 spades Pass Pass

"The scene was ideal. It was the last hand in a duplicate game. The others all had finished and were standing around watching the play. Our worst enemy would not have accused us of underbidding the hand. It was decisive, if not scientific. When the final contract was reached Mrs. B. on my left, remarked: 'I have nothing in my hand on which to double.' Her husband, sitting on my right, evidently thought he had, so he doubled. They did their best to give me the contract by leading the ace of hearts and continuing a heart. One trick already had been played and I counted 11 winners. Something seemed to whisper a trump squeeze, but beyond knowing I should bare the ace of clubs, I could not figure out the exact technique. Just at this point one of the women said: 'I do not see what he is waiting for.' So I plunged ahead and tried for an ordinary squeeze, playing out six rounds of trumps, going over to dummy with the ace of clubs and trumping a heart, hoping to set up the ten. Result, down one. As soon as I got home I played the hand over and how simple it was! This, of course, is the five card position I should have reached:

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON

Transplanting can be accomplished at almost any season of the year, even during the hot days of mid-summer, if proper care is taken. Of course, summer transplanting is not to be recommended, but there are times when it seems necessary. In preparation, soak a supply of peat moss in water for several hours until it becomes saturated. Dig the holes, into which the plant is to be set, several inches deeper than would ordinarily be required. In the bottom place two inches or more of the saturated peat moss and cover it with an inch or two of a good compost or enriched garden soil. The plant is then set and thoroughly watered. It should also be shaded from the bright sun for a few days.

Try making edible place cards for children's parties. A simple one may be made by cutting out cards one by two inches in size. Bake them carefully and then write the name of each guest on his card with thin icing squeezed through a pastry tube.

And the worst of it was, one of the women made six spades and she knew no more about a trump squeeze than she did about the fourth dimension. This was by no means the only blunder of the evening. I had my wife for a partner. If there had been a booby prize we would not have gone home empty handed.

"Your very truly,
"J. H. V. Boissevain, Man."

J. H. V. need feel no shame over miffing a trump squeeze. This is, by all odds, the aristocrat of the squeeze family and there is only a handful of players in the United States that can execute one in actual play.

The crux of the play was, of course, in the opening lead and continuation, which virtually located East with an original holding that included the Q-J of hearts. Also, presumably, East for his double had the high clubs. The difficulty lies in discarding properly from the dummy on the six rounds of spades that should be played. Dummy's two hearts must be kept intact as a threat against East. It does no good to discard three diamonds from dummy, because South holds no long card in the suit over the top tricks actually held. Thus the discard of three clubs and two diamonds from dummy becomes fairly automatic.

The play from the five cards position given is easy. South leads two rounds of diamonds, ending in dummy. East cannot let go a heart. If he does, declarer merely ruffs a heart to establish dummy's ten. East must, therefore, let go two clubs, and now declarer cashes the club ace and returns to his hand by ruffing, to cash the club nine for the final trick.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: If dummy calls attention to a defender's irregularity and asks declarer if he knows his rights, and declarer asks what they are, has dummy the right to tell him?

Answer: Yes.

Waist Must Be Slender For Beauty

THE wedding dress of Her Grace, the Duchess of Windsor, started a new vogue that has swept not only this country but the world. It has inspired girdle manufacturers to create new undergarments, it has been reproduced in any number of versions, it is definitely a youthful vogue and it taboos any thickness around the waist.

You've seen it, of course. You know how swift it looks. A straight, firm line at abdomen, diaphragm and waist; no thickness, no bunching, just youthful firmness, and an uplifted bustline. Youth and beauty in every inch of the long line.

One may, by clever corseting, achieve that line and conceal an unwelcome spare tire beneath. But what satisfaction is it to be known that the slim silhouette is you, yourself and not the corset camouflage.

The small waistline has always been a mark of feminine beauty. Today is remains the envy of moderns. To be sure we don't have to achieve hour-glass proportions, but for beauty's sake the waistline must be small, molded, controlled. Try a daily diet of trunk twisting and bending exercises on a waist that threatens to thicken. By the end of the summer there won't be a sign of a spare tire and you'll be all set for that girdled, corseted look that Dame Fashion forecasts for fall.

Touching Fingertips to Toes

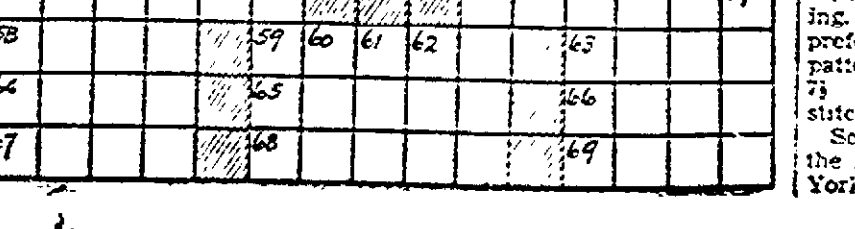

The exercise is at least as old as you are, but it has remained a winner for whittling down the waistline. The trick is not to bend the knees, but to bend from waist and touch fingertips to toes. Then, the fingers of one hand to opposite toe. You raise arms overhead, feeling quite a pull through the waist. At the same time the left arm comes down to shoulder level, palm facing backward. Do this vigorously. Notice the pull through the waist and the twist-bend movement. Do it just a few times at first, then gradually more and more.

Another: Lie face downward, preferably on floor or mat stretched ahead, legs stretched downward. Try raising upper part of body. Back to position. Now try raising legs. When you can do both of these well, try raising both upper part of body and legs at the same time. You should feel a definite strain through the waist, flashing a message of "controlled waist and flattened abdomen."

My complete new booklet "Reduce by Exercise" (Booklet 202) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, c/o this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

Expert Thinks Child Is Entitled to One Bite

Charles was Big Brother, aged six. Betty was Little Sister, aged four. They played together very well but that was because Charles always had the dominant position. Whatever the game he was the head, the important personality. He gave the orders, he planned the scheme, directed every movement and Betty took orders with bland indifference. Until yesterday.

Yesterday Charles charged into the house, blazoring with righteous anger, crying with pain and humiliation. Betty followed him in with her usual calmness. There was, however, an unaccustomed light in her eye that did not fail to attract her mother's attention.

"What's the trouble, Charles. Take it easy. Don't shout so."

"Betty bit me. She bit me on the arm. Look. I'm getting black and blue."

Mother looked at Betty but there was no sign of self-reproach in the serene face of the culprit.

"Betty, did you really bite Big Brother?"

"Yes, I did bite him," said Betty, with unruffled calm.

"Why, dear? What made you do such a thing?"

"She's a bad Sister, that's why," moaned outraged Charles, holding his arm as though in fear it might be devoured by the enemy any instant.

"No, I'm not bad. Brother said he was Chief How How and I must be his little dog so I said, 'All right,' and he said, 'Now I must tie you to the tree,' and so I said, 'All right,' and when he went to tie me to the tree then I did bite him. Cause I was the dog and I didn't want to be a dog. I wanted to be Big Squaw. I did not like to be the dog. And so I did bite him."

"Hm-m-m," said mother. "Go get the witch hazel bottle, Charles. And while you bathe your arm, Betty and I will get something good for the Indian's supper and you can eat it in the tent."

"Aren't you going to punish her?" demanded the astounded Charles.

"You'd better get the witch hazel, son."

When Charles was quite out of hearing mother said, "If you didn't like being a dog, Betty, you needn't have acted like a bad dog. Rover would not bite you, you know."

"He wouldn't tie me to a tree, either, mother. Can we have chocolate, too? I like chocolates."

That night mother told father the story after the two children were in their beds asleep. He's been dominating her ever since she was born and I was rather glad she showed the will and the power to assert herself. But to bite him—

"Every dog is allowed his one bite," chuckled father. "Maybe Charles will be willing to take turns in being Big Chief after this. I hope so."

One member of the group is always dominant. Train the others to become proficient in some one way so that they at least can take a turn at leadership. It does not do to play dog too long. And that might prevent even the one bite.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

LETTER WRITING AND LETTER PAPER

Dear Mrs. Post: I wanted to give a little present to a friend's daughter when she graduated from school early this summer, but forgot about it. Now that I know where she is going to college I think it might be nice to send her a paper to mark this with her name with or without "Miss" and the name of the college and its address? I mean can she use this paper for all her letter writing?

Answer: Good-looking writing paper is always useful—in fact it is something of which one can not have too much. Put Miss before her name and under it her full post office address. Otherwise—for intimate paper choose her first name alone (or her whole name but without Miss and no address).

Dear Mrs. Post: I will soon find myself in a predicament if I don't watch out. I know that I shall receive wedding presents from many of my dearer aunts and uncles and cousins and other less-often and thinks a great deal, but all of whom I have either never met or know slightly. How should I write them? Will I seem unnecessarily stiff by saying Dear Mrs. Blank when I have only heard him call her "Aunt Marah"? Or on the other hand, if I write "Dear Aunt Marah," might she not think I am overbearing?

Answer: Unless they have asked you to, it would be very premature to call them by the names he does until you are married. Even afterwards what you call them depends somewhat on them. In most cases in-laws love to be made real relations by those who join the family, but they like the relationship to be founded on an impulse of personal appeal and not just a tag put on mechanically. Do you see?

Answer: If you mean for invitations, acceptances and regrets, or notes of thanks or condolence, then NO! But excepting strictly social notes, typewritten letters have now been admitted for practically all correspondence. Long letters to friends may, and all letters on business or professional subjects should be typewritten.

Now that I know where she is going to college I think it might be nice to send her a paper to mark this with her name with or without "Miss" and the name of the college and its address? I mean can she use this paper for all her letter writing?

Answer: Good-looking writing paper is always useful—in fact it is something of which one can not have too much. Put Miss before her name and under it her full post office address. Otherwise—for intimate paper choose her first name alone (or her whole name but without Miss and no address).

Dear Mrs. Post: I will soon find myself in a predicament if I don't watch out. I know that I shall receive wedding presents from many of my dearer aunts and uncles and cousins and other less-often and thinks a great deal, but all of whom I have either never met or know slightly. How should I write them? Will I seem unnecessarily stiff by saying Dear Mrs. Blank when I have only heard him call her "Aunt Marah"? Or on the other hand, if I write "Dear Aunt Marah," might she not think I am overbearing?

Answer: Unless they have asked you to, it would be very premature to call them by the names he does until you are married. Even afterwards what you call them depends somewhat on them. In most cases in-laws love to be made real relations by those who join the family, but they like the relationship to be founded on an impulse of personal appeal and not just a tag put on mechanically. Do you see?

Answer: If you mean for invitations, acceptances and regrets, or notes of thanks or condolence, then NO! But excepting strictly social notes, typewritten letters have now been admitted for practically all correspondence. Long letters to friends may, and all letters on business or professional subjects should be typewritten.

Soft, decorative candlewick tufting! What a thrill is in store for the one who sets needle to this gay butterfly motif! Choose colors to match your room or use just one color, if you prefer. Bolster motifs are included. Pattern 1548 contains a transfer pattern of a motif 16 1/2 x 24 inches and one and one reverse motif 5 1/2 x 7 1/2 inches; color suggestions; material requirements; illustrations of stitches used.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to the Appleton Post-Crescent, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number your name and address.

Waist Must Be Slender For Beauty

THE wedding dress of Her Grace, the Duchess of Windsor, started a new vogue that has swept not only this country but the world. It has inspired girdle manufacturers to create new undergarments, it has been reproduced in any number of versions, it is definitely a youthful vogue and it taboos any thickness around the waist.

You've seen it, of course. You know how swift it looks. A straight, firm line at abdomen, diaphragm and waist; no thickness, no bunching, just youthful firmness, and an uplifted bustline. Youth and beauty in every inch of the long line.

One may, by clever corseting, achieve that line and conceal an unwelcome spare tire beneath. But what satisfaction is it to be known that the slim silhouette is you, yourself and not the corset camouflage.

The small waistline has always been a mark of feminine beauty. Today is remains the envy of moderns. To be sure we don't have to achieve hour-glass proportions, but for beauty's sake the waistline must be small, molded, controlled. Try a daily diet of trunk twisting and bending exercises on a waist that threatens to thicken. By the end of the summer there won't be a sign of a spare tire and you'll be all set for that girdled, corseted look that Dame Fashion forecasts for fall.

Touching Fingertips to Toes

The exercise is at least as old as you are, but it has remained a winner for whittling down the waistline. The trick is not to bend the knees, but to bend from waist and touch fingertips to toes. Then, the fingers of one hand to opposite toe. You raise arms overhead, feeling quite a pull through the waist. At the same time the left arm comes down to shoulder level, palm facing backward. Do this vigorously. Notice the pull through the waist and the twist-bend movement. Do it just a few times at first, then gradually more and more.

Another: Lie face downward, preferably on floor or mat stretched ahead, legs stretched downward. Try raising upper part of body. Back to position. Now try raising legs. When you can do both of these well, try raising both upper part of body and legs at the same time. You should feel a definite strain through the waist, flashing a message of "controlled waist and flattened abdomen."

My complete new booklet "Reduce by Exercise" (Booklet 202) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, c/o this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

LETTER WRITING AND LETTER PAPER

Dear Mrs. Post: I wanted to give a little present to a friend's daughter when she graduated from school early this summer, but forgot about it. 90 Entered in First Swimming Tourney at Pool

Novelty Races and Treasure Hunts Will Feature Meet

New London — About 90 entries have been registered for the first New London swimming and diving meet which will be held at the Hatten Memorial park pool Sunday afternoon.

Feature of the event will be the novelty races and treasure hunts. A total of 10 free swims will be given away to the diver who can rescue the fish from the bottom of the pool. Six fish will be marked with from one to three notches representing free swims.

Cash treasure in the form of coins will climax the hunt when handfuls of real money will be thrown into the pool to salvage. This last hunting event will be limited to 15 minutes.

Novelty races will consist of the umbrella race and water race. It is also expected that "Professor Whatafloat" will be on hand in person with some fancy diving. In case of rain or cold weather the meet will be held the following Sunday, Aug. 8.

Candy Girls Trounced by Winnebago Team, 10-3

New London — Up against a smother team all around, the New London Bumps Bowlby Candy girls last night conceded a 10 to 3 victory to the Oshkosh Winnebago team in a winning softball game under the lights at the city hall park. The game was the second of a doubleheader in which the Waupesa Braves girls were blanketed 11 to 0 by Oshkosh. A large crowd was forced into the grand stands when showers fell during the second game but play was not interrupted.

Tonight the girls are sponsoring a benefit dance at the Bean City pavilion to help pay for their new uniforms and Friday night they will invade Bear Creek to tangle with a girls team there.

Four Home Runs
There was no half-way mark in the hitting last night as was either a single base hit or a home run. The Oshkosh girls scored three and Evelyn Steidl of Stephensonville cracked one for the New London team.

The visitors scored three runs in the first inning on an error, a walk and two singles in succession and then two home runs by Klotzbucher and L. Schroeder counted in the third for a 5-0 start. Another costly error on the first man up accounted for a run in the fourth. The Winnebago girls enjoyed six hits in the sixth and last frame which was started by a homer on the part of Munach but only two of the singles survived to make three runs.

Steidl stole the show with her New London home run smash in the fourth in-

Park Board Frowns On Use of Grounds For Motorcycle Polo

New London — The possibility of the New London Labor Day Homecoming committee using the city hall park for a motorcycle polo ground at the September celebration was frowned on by the New London park board after a practical demonstration last night of the damage which may be done to the field.

To test the damaging properties of maneuvering machines, five New London cyclists staged an amateur game at the field last night for the benefit of the park board and Labor day committees.

As a result of the practical test the board is inclined to deny the use of the park for such contests. An appeal may be made to the common council.

FLAME TRAIL

"I'm Tom Runyon, the new fire patrol for this area." Kay felt the man beside her stiffen as he answered the unspoken question behind the newcomer's words.

"My name's Kay Crandon," She felt the color flooding her cheeks in spite of herself at his searching look, and her mind flew from one idea the another for a plausible explanation of Ted Gaynor's presence. The fact that his horse was hidden off the trail made it all the more suspicious and complicated, in case Tom Runyon should elect to go along with them.

She knew very well that if suspicion were fastened on Ted Gaynor everyone would be sure he was guilty of the other fires that had taken place. Believing, as she did, that this was his first attempt, and that he would never make another, she was determined to save him, now that she had undertaken the job.

Telltale Brush Fire
A sudden inspiration flashed in her mind, and she added, without perceptible hesitation, "I'm thinking of taking up some timber land up here, and Ted Gaynor has been looking over it for me."

Without looking round, she could feel the taut figure at her side relax.

"Oh, I see," Tom Runyon discussed his attention on her again, to her great relief. "You're the owner of the lazy Nine," he went on, smiling at the picture Kay made with her brilliant coloring set off against the dark background of pines. "I've heard about you. But why don't you wait another month before you take up any timber land? You're liable to buy up a forest fire, if you get it now."

"Not with you for fire patrol!" Kay looked up demurely from under her long dark lashes. The more she could keep his attention centered on her the better, in this danger spot.

He gave an appreciative chuckle. "You've said it! Firebugs aren't going to have the cinch they've been having any more." Suddenly his eyes wandered past her, and he

Tennis Court Ready for Activities at Kimberly

Kimberly — Tennis players may sign up this week at the clubhouse for the first game on the new double tennis court in the rear of the bank next week.

Many attractions will be featured at the annual bazaar and picnic of the Holy Name parish on Aug. 22 at the park. The notion counter will have children's school clothes, fancy work and infants' clothes on display. The women of the parish are now making these articles which will soon be turned over to the committee in charge. Bazaar books were distributed last week to each paying unit in the parish. On the midway there will be games, lunch counters and beverage stands. Seating space in the shade will be provided. Parking space for over a thousand cars will also be available on the Kimberly-Clark parking grounds.

Seniors boys horseshoes singles and Junior boys doubles tournaments will be held the first part of next week.

In the Junior boys croquet doubles played this week, Dick Demming and Ralph Holliday emerged with Keith Geske and Ken Gradow as rivals for the championship among six teams. The deciding game probably will be played Friday.

Showdown Is Held Near in Michigan On Civil Service

Governor Murphy Confers With Members of Joint Legislative Group

Lansing Mich.—(AP)—Administration forces prepared today for a showdown on civil service.

Governor Frank Murphy went into conference with members of the house and senate conference committee in which the proposal was deadlocked in the closing hours of the business session of the legislature. He said that unless the legislature in its adjournment and special sessions beginning Thursday, adopts an acceptable measure he will carry the fight to the people.

A bill drafted in the executive office was ready for consideration by the committee. Although its contents were not made public, it was understood it paralleled closely the original study commission draft. It calls for qualifying examinations for present state employees, a director of civil service appointed by the governor and immediate effect, the house, during the business session, approved a bill "blanketing in" all state employees, without examination.

Expects Passage

"I believe the legislature will pass the bill," he said. "The people want it."

A bill calling for the resumption of tax sales was signed by Governor Murphy Tuesday. It provides for the first sale of tax distressed property since 1933 to be held the second Tuesday in May, 1938. Property sold for taxes in that sale will be subject to redemption by the owner within 18 months. Northern Michigan property not redeemed will revert to the conservation department.

Strike Called on Federal Project

Elkins, W. Va.—(AP)—Elected directors of homesteaders at the Tygart valley federal resettlement project called a strike of men workers of the community today, charging the government administrators with inefficiency.

One hundred and thirty workers will join the "walkout," said the five-man board which was elected by the homesteaders to administer a cooperative farm and a lime stone quarry owned by their Tygart Valley association.

The board said its protests were made against the resettlement administration at Washington and L. Wade Coberly, resident engineer in charge of construction of buildings on the project.

The resettlement administration started work on the homestead in 1933.

The five-man board gave these reasons for its action:

(1)—Inefficient management.

(2)—Waste of federal and Tygart Valley association funds.

(3)—Attempts on the part of the resettlement officers "to cover up and protect one another" in this waste.

(4)—Disregard of "all principles of democracy in the management of the project."

(5)—Construction of a community center by private contract and not by government contract.

The directors, in charging "waste," asserted $63.80 had been spent for labor, gasoline and a threshing machine to thresh 84 bushels of rye.

Motorboats Must Carry Mufflers, Chief Warns

Menasha—Noisy motorboats must be muffled when on the river in the city limits or the owners will be arrested and fined under the ordinance prohibiting excessive and unnecessary noise. Police Chief Alex Slomski said this morning.

The chief made the statement following receipt of a letter from Henry V. Schwalbach, collector of customs, in which it was explained that "any city can pass an ordinance making noise a nuisance and may enforce such ordinance within city limits even though boats are operated on government-controlled waters."

Schwalbach's letter was in reply to a request by the Menasha police department for information regarding policing of boats. Complaints over the noise made by the boats on the river in this city have been received by the department all summer, but officers hesitate to take any action because the water is under the jurisdiction of the War department.

"I would recommend to motorboat owners that either they muffle their engines or do most of their riding out on the lake away from homes," the chief said. "We will have to make arrests on complaint from now on."

Boats in this locality will also be checked more carefully for license fees, according to Schwalbach's letter.

"As to the matter of motorboat operating without identification numbers on the bows, I would advise you that this has been referred to the United States Coast Guard with the request that the water in the Fox River valley be patrolled," the customs official wrote.

He indicated that an inspection of water craft would be made here soon and that the Coast Guard would police waters in this vicinity regularly in the future.

Waupaca County Relief Status Will be Probed

Waupaca—Relief problems will be given a thorough airing at the Waupaca county courthouse tomorrow when clerks, supervisors and county officials meet with the pauper committee to consider claims filed by Winnebago and Outagamie counties and the soldiers and sailors relief committee meet with all persons who drew relief checks in June.

L. J. Steiger, county clerk, and the pauper committee, chaired by P. C. Jensen and composed of George Redman and Ike Poetke, will meet with clerks of the 22 townships and supervisors to discuss the claims from the neighboring counties.

Persons on relief have been requested to appear before the soldiers and sailors relief committee, composed of Dr. A. M. Christofferson, Waupaca; Dr. S. Mulvaney, Marion; and Emil Gehrke, New London; to prove their eligibility for aid.

Demoted Fire Chief Asks For Leave of Absence

Stevens Point—(AP)—Frank F. Kirshing, whose demotion from fire chief to the rank of a regular fireman was recently upheld in circuit court, yesterday expressed his willingness to report for duty, but requested a year's leave of absence to permit recovery from ailments from which he claims to be suffering.

Kirshing's request was contained in a letter from him addressed to acting Chief Paul Tuszka and was read before the board of police and fire commissioners at a special meeting yesterday. The commission acknowledged receipt of the request, but deferred action until its regular meeting next Monday, Aug. 2.

Asks Improved Secondary Road System in Wisconsin

Milwaukee—(AP)—Frank O'Rourke of Dodge county, president of the Wisconsin Highway Committee's association, called for hard surfaced roads "to every door" in Wisconsin in an address at a joint meeting of his group and the Wisconsin County Highway Commissioners' association yesterday.

"Fine highways for tourists crossing the state are a great asset," he said, "but we need the improved secondary highway system even more."

In what were regarded here as precedents, the state board earlier this week denied similar applications from organizations of employees of the Nekosota-Port Edward paper company of Wisconsin Rapids and the Appleton Coated Paper company of Appleton.

In the Appleton decision, announced Tuesday, Kyle said the board "had not been persuaded that the Appleton Coated Paper Company Employees association is not a company union."

'Croesus of Crime' Sent to Prison for Long Term in Dewey Drive on Rackets

(Editor's note: On the trial of a $12,000,000-a-year crime "slush fund." Special Rackets Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey finally learned that "the boss" was a shadowy figure named Charlie. That was enough. He knew who "Charlie" was. But trapping this multi-millionaire "Croesus of crime" was another matter. This is the third in a series of stories on New York city's racket-smasher.)

BY ROGER D. GREENE
New York—The deadline expired at midnight.
At one minute past 12 o'clock, two New York detectives—acting under secret code instructions from Prosecutor Dewey in New York—swung into the jail at Little Rock, Ark., and asked the jailer: "Where's Charlie? We're taking him with us."

The jailer shook his head. "You can't do that. His lawyers have got until tomorrow to file an appeal against extraditing him." The detectives grinned. "It's tomorrow now," one of them said. "Let's have the prisoner!" Grumbling, sleepy-eyed, cursing his attorneys, whining, "You're kidnapping me!" the prisoner was trundled from his cell, whisked to the railroad station and locked in the compartment of a fast east-moving train.

Charlie "Lucky" Luciano, or Luciano, scar-faced, drop-eyed Sicilian, spawned in the slums of east side New York, now known as "the boss" of New York's vice ring, complained bitterly at the turn in his fortunes.

Murders Hinted
The cops, he said, had him all wrong. Disorderly houses weren't his real racket. He hated to be known in connection with a frowzy racket like that.

The detectives nodded. "Sure, Charlie," they said. They understood. Maybe he had a right to feel hurt. Maybe the grand jury indictments should have read something else than the slush fund charging conspiracy to defraud. Maybe it was a "bum wrap," because the police wanted to talk to Charlie about something a little more serious—something about how Arthur "Dutch Schultz" Fleishman, the former big shot of New York racketeers, and three of his bodyguards were rubbed out in a Newark, N. J., beer tavern six months before.

In his delirious rantings before death, Schultz had told police that "the boss himself" shot him. But the police had nothing definite on Luciano in the Schultz mass murders. And Dewey had to have something on the hapless and unhappy "Lucky" in the bordello racket—enough to send him away for a long, long stretch.

Located in Arkansas
Luciano had disappeared after the Schultz massacre. He finally was turned up in Hot Springs, Ark., but resisted extradition and gained a 10-day stay in order to make an appeal.

In granting the stay, however, Judge John E. Martineau specified that Luciano's lawyers must give 24 hours notice for leave to appeal. Stalling for time, Luciano's attorneys delayed until the last minute, which expired at midnight. That was when the alert Dewey, directing the fight in New York, had his detectives drag the sleepy-eyed Luciano from his Little Rock jail cell at 12:01 a. m.

Returned to New York, "Lucky" was met at the station by 48 detectives and policemen, and with 12 of his lieutenants was locked up under prohibitive bail totalling $1,750,000. More than 100 witnesses, mostly kohl-eyed creatures of the demimonde, were kept in custody through all the weeks of the trial.

But Dewey found it hard work to get witnesses to testify against the dread "boss."

Reluctant Witness
"For two hours," he told the jury, "I sat with Nancy Presser trying to persuade her to testify and that she would not be murdered. If you want to know what responsibility is, try to persuade a witness trembling with terror to go on the stand."

But Nancy Presser did testify—and Dewey himself, soft-spoken, deceptively serene, the sullen "mean mind" Luciano on the stand.

The youthful prosecutor made him look ridiculous when Luciano tried to explain why he was riding around in an automobile with a sawed-off shotgun, two revolvers and 45 rounds of ammunition.

"What were you doing?" asked Dewey.
"We'd just come from the country. We were hunting peasants."

"You mean peasants?"
"Yeah, that's it."

Dewey smiled. "Very interesting. Hunting peasants in July. Did you use the shotgun or one of the revolvers?"

And another time, on a point involving the vice czar's veracity, Dewey inquired politely:

Veracity Attacked
"Do you always tell the truth when under oath?"
"I'm telling the truth now."

"I see, I'm just trying to get your philosophy."
"I may not always tell the truth, but I'm telling the truth now," Lucky insisted doggedly.

"Are you willing to perjure yourself when there's something in it for you?"
"No."

Dewey then wrung an admission from Luciano that he had lied to every question on an application for a pistol permit.

Seven hours, in his final summation, Dewey pounded remorselessly at the scar-faced "Lucky," gaining a conviction that sent the "crime Croesus" to Dannemora prison for a term of 30 to 50 years. Now 38, Luciano will be eligible for parole in 1937.

Nine of Luciano's lieutenants drew similar life sentences.

Albania Classed As New Trouble Center in Europe

Brief Revolt Occurs in Southern Tip of Small Country
Washington, D. C.—Albania, one of Europe's smallest and least-known kingdoms, had a brief revolt recently in the southern tip of the country. The uprising had its center the town of Gjinokaster (Argirocastro) in a region inhabited mostly by Tosks, one of the two predominant racial strains among the people of Albania.

Gjinokaster, a town of approximately 11,000 inhabitants situated near the southern extremity of the country, is predominantly Mohammedan, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society. "The rest of the population is Greek-speaking Orthodox Christian. Only ten miles from the Greek frontier, Gjinokaster was claimed by Greece at the end of the Balkan Wars in 1912-1913, but without success. Mohammedanism, of course, is a hold-over from the long period, 1479 to 1812, when this rugged, mountainous kingdom of the Balkan Peninsula was a part of Turkey."

Cheese and Carpets
"Situated 1,000 feet above sea level among rugged mountains, Gjinokaster's white-roofed houses are ranged along a hilltop and straggle like lines of snow down into the V-shaped valley. Up and down winding mountain roads ply the donkeys of sturdy Tosks plying to and from the town's bazaar with its small, open-faced shops selling of cheese, carpets, woolen materials and other produce. The manufacture of cheese, one of Albania's main exports, is an important industry in Gjinokaster. Another favored occupation there is carpet weaving, a reminder of the long years Albania was under Turkish domination."

"Near the town are great groves of olives, and to the north, American corn, small grains, and other crops are raised in the fertile fields that lie like checkerboards along the valley of the Viosa River between bluish peaks, snowclad throughout much of the year."

Water is Wealth
"Water is wealth in Albania. She has but two navigable rivers and these are only partially, and seasonally so. Wasted torrents from the mountains in winter and bonedry stream beds in summer—these are the extremes in the water problem of a country where the creation of storage lakes could be an economic boon."

"Many of the Tosks in the vicinity of Gjinokaster who are not farmers are shepherds, tending flocks of sheep, or raising cattle and goats, for their wool, hides, and dairy products."

"The Tosks, separated from the less civilized Ghegs of northern Albania by the River Shkumbi, are distinguished by their picturesque dress. In the back country, men wear full, plaited, knee-length, white skirts, wide sashes, and embroidered jackets over white shirts. They like ornamentation, and their jackets may bear enough gold and silver embroidery to pay a first-class passage from Albania to New York."

Ancient Race
"Modern Albanians will tell you that they represent the most ancient race in southeastern Europe. Their language and tribal customs suggest remote origins. They are probably the descendants of the ancient Illyrians, who in turn came from the Pelagius rock race, of which echoes are caught in Greek literature."

"As a race, Albanians are brave and hardy, always faithful to their pledges. Drastic means are often used to enforce their personal laws. Hospitality is inexcusable at any time."

"Novel are even the minor habits in the daily life of these people isolated until recently. To be without a mustache used to be a disgrace in many parts of northern Albania. The Albanian mother told her child stories in which a hairless man appeared figured as the villain. Some Albanians refrained from cutting their hair during the new moon lest it turn white."

Bakery Workers Form Mutual Association
Workers of the Elm Tree bakery have organized an independent union and have applied to the state labor relations board for the right to be the bargaining agent for the employees. They have organized under the Elm Tree Bakery Employees' Mutual association, and there are 56 members.

Duane H. Larson is president of the association; Jan. Schweder, secretary and treasurer, and Arthur Stumpf, vice president. Richard Hanneman, Frank Braidl, Meta Sorenson, Fred Sorenson, Joseph Driesen, Ray Gunderson and R. Van Berkel are members of the grievance committee. Meetings are held each second Saturday at the State bank building. A meeting was held with the management Saturday on hours, wages and closed shop.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Beirnard, 302 E. Pacific street, will leave Thursday night for New York City, where they will attend the national music trades convention.

June M. Lonsdorf of the Robin Hood Dress shop returned today from a buying trip to Chicago. She attended the New York style show Monday night at the Casino Paraisienne.

INJURED IN FALL
Mrs. A. J. Cannady, College avenue, was injured in a fall on a N. Appleton street sidewalk about 9:20 Tuesday morning, according to police. She suffered bruises of the face and right hand.

never given blood because "the doctors always turned me down. They said I had enough to do rounding up compatible donors and bringing them to the hospital."

The St. Louis window washer, visiting a hospital with his Sunday school class, was impressed by a patient's improvement after a blood transfusion.

He went home and organized his friends and neighbors into one of the strangest charities ever known—an organization to supply blood without cost to patients unable to pay.

Today W. R. Goodman's "Blood Donors' Benevolent Society of Missouri" has more than 500 members with a branch in Tel Aviv, Palestine, and others under formation in this country.

On call day and night, they ask no pay, seek no honors. Such expenses as gas and oil for transportation are met by individuals or by gifts of grateful patients.

How It Works
A typical case involves this procedure: A patient needs a transfusion. His blood is typed. A matching type is selected from the index of donors, and James Mayes, society manager, or his assistant, Elvis Maxfield, notified. The donor is rushed to the hospital and if the blood is compatible, about a pint is taken. Then the donor is taken home to await another call. The society averages a transfusion daily.

Four of its members have blood of "type one" and four of "type three"—distinguished for rare qualities of compatibility. Persons of all walks of life belong to the group but the majority are working men and housewives.

Top honors go to a middle-aged housewife, Emma Conrad, and an unemployed worker, John Ellis. She averaged a transfusion a month for 12 months while he has given blood 20 times.

Honored by Doctors
Goodman, a 42-year-old World War veteran who managed the society in its first two years, has

Pegler of Allegiance but rate the American Oath Third in Loyalty

At last week's main demonstration one of the principal speakers said Italy and Germany were the two greatest countries in the world and the fact that nobody took exception to this appraisal would appear to place the United States in the show-hole at best.

To be sure, American immigrants from Germany and Italy who rank this country no better than third can hardly have much loyalty left for the land of their adoption, but there are not many of them, and in case of need they could readily be rounded up from their membership rolls.

As a subversive force they hardly amount to a respectable nuisance, but as an example of Nazi manners and morals, they can do some good. The effect would be better if they would reproduce, in their camps certain other attractions of their homeland, such as pagan rites and raids upon churches, concentrations of political prisoners and an election with a ballot having no place for a dissenting vote.

These exhibits, along with a model of the Nazi censorship and a few mock executions by the courtly official in the full dress suit with the medieval axe would be sure to make a strong impression on the youth which would, in fact, put its feet upon the tables and spit chewing gum at the walls.

Prize Freedom More
After Viewing Nazi Camp
Of course there will be some members of that race, including war veterans, who will be impatient and somewhat indignant, at the rudeness of aliens, naturalized and otherwise, who abuse the hospitality of a free country to flout that freedom and extol the rule of the gun. In the land from which the American Nazis come no body of foreigners would be allowed to hold public demonstrations in favor of

Fans Name All-Star Grid Team to Meet Champion Packers

Pro Footballers Have Edge on Wins In Series So Far

Expect 75,000 Spectators At Annual Clash at Soldier's Field

CHICAGO—(AP)—More than 5,000,000 gridiron fans around 75,000 of whom will be here as witnesses, have picked the array of 1936 college aces they expect to whip the professional Champion Green Bay Packers in the fourth annual All Star game at Soldier Field Sept. 1.

Since the big spectacle was introduced by the Chicago Tribune in 1934, no team of collegians has been able to conquer the professional standard bearer, the Chicago Bears the first two years, and Detroit's Lions a year ago, but the fans—5,036,466 of them—have called on 65 stars, five of them members of the All America, to prove tandem can't be wrong four times in a row.

The All America stars who will be in the starting lineup in the battle under the floodlights, are big Sam Francis, Nebraska fullback and the leading vote-getter with 1,104,372; Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State end; Tackles Ed Widseth of Minnesota, and Averell Daniell of Pittsburgh, and Max Starcevic, Washington guard. Three others of the All America, Larry Kelley, Yale's brilliant end; Center Mike Basrak of Duquesne, and Ray Bivard, prize halfback from Marquette, will be on the squad.

The other starting end will be Merle Wendt of Ohio State, Steve Reid, captain of Northwestern's Big Ten champions, will start at the other guard, Bud Svendsen of Minnesota, was selected to start at center, completing the line. The Quarterback at kickoff time will be Vernon Huffman of Indiana, with Bobby La Rue of Pittsburgh, and Purdue's John Drake at the halfback positions.

The collegians have two ties in the account book. The 1934 aggregation held the Bears to a scoreless standoff, and last year's boys gained a 7 to 7 tie with the Lions. The Bears gave the pros the edge in 1935, however, by winning, 5 to 0.

The rest of the squad: Ends—Bill O'Neill, Notre Dame; Ray Anzil, Minnesota; Leo Deutsch, St. Benedict; Charles Galaska, Mississippi State; Woodrow Strongberg, Army; Matt Patanelli, Michigan; Ken Nelson, Illinois; Dwight Hafeli, Washington University (St. Louis); and John Zilk, Northwestern.

Tackles—Bill Steinkemper and Frank Kopszak, Notre Dame; John Golemgoske, Wisconsin; Charles Hamrick, Ohio State; Gene Dykstra, Illinois; Gerry Dennerlein, St. Mary's; Hal Carlson, De Paul; Delbert Bjork, Oregon, and Nestor Henrich, Carnegie Tech.

Guards—Bill Glassford, Pittsburgh; Cliff Kuhn, Illinois; John Laurer, Notre Dame; Inwood Smith, Ohio State; Dick Bassi, Santa Clara; Gordon Dahlgren, Michigan State; Sam Galvoich, Knox, and Joe Sals, St. Viator.

Centers—George Bell, Purdue; John Wiatrak, Washington, and Gil Kuhn, Southern California. Quarterbacks—Bud Wilkinson, Minnesota; Sam Bauch, Texas Christian; Nello Falaschi, Santa Clara; Art Guey, Marquette; Davis Davis, Southern California; Ed Goddard, Washington State, and William Harrison (Tippy) Dye, Ohio State.

Halfbacks—Bivard, Marquette; Bob Wilke, Notre Dame; Julius Alfonso, Minnesota; Byron Haines, Washington; Lloyd Cordwell, Nebraska; Charles (Mink) Meyer, Army; Tom Gibbons, St. Viator; Willie Phillips, De Paul; Jimmy Cain, Washington; Al Aggett, Michigan State, and Joe Riley, Alabama. Fullbacks—Larry Danborn, Notre Dame; Eddie Janikowski, Wisconsin; Don Geyer and Steve Telli, Northwestern, and Tom Wilson, Illinois.

1st Division Berth Open For Hustling Boston Bees

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—(AP)—If they keep hustling, those smooth-stepping Boston Bees may grab themselves a first division berth. . . . About the only guys you'll recognize on the 1938 Cardinals will be Joe Medwick and maybe Frankie Frisch. . . . Archie San Romani, the Kansas miler, is off on the Queen Mary today to campaign in Europe. . . . Sonja Henie, the skate queen, went vacationing to Norway aboard the same boat.

The Giants have asked for waivers on George (Kiddo) Davis and Pitcher Tom Baker.

Northern State Squads to Meet Non-League Teams

Fond du Lac Invades Kimberly Tonight. Kaws at Clintonville Thursday

KIMBERLY—Two Northern State league teams will show up in night games this week against non-league opponents in an effort to keep their ball clubs clicking in smooth style. Kimberly will clash with the strong Fond du Lac nine at 8:30 tonight under the lights at the ball park here and Kaukauna will travel to Clintonville for a return game with the Trunkers.

Kimberly is expected to use a combination of the Kosloski brothers for their battery, with their regular catcher, Wildenberg, also taking a turn behind the plate. Dave Kosloski and Herb Kosloski may form the battery with Behr and Wildenberg second choices.

Fond du Lac, with nine wins and only one loss in its record, will probably use Schramm on the mound against the Papermakers. Schramm recently hurled a no-hit no-run game.

Kaukauna will use Brokup of Menasha on the mound against the strong Clintonville club of the Wolf Valley league. Brokup hurled the Kaws to a 4 to 3 win over the FWD nine last week in an extraordinary tilt, with Peck on the receiving end.

Dynamiters Retain Twilight Loop Lead

Dynamiters are retaining the lead in the Twilight league at Riverview Country club with one week of play remaining. The squad is composed of William Rounds, Roy Purdy, Dr. J. L. Benton and N. G. C. Walker and boasts a total of 159 points.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Published reports that Kenesaw Mountain Landis would investigate horse race betting by major league baseball players were denied emphatically last night by the baseball commissioner. The dismissal of Rogers Hornsby as manager of the St. Louis Browns gave rise to reports of such an inquiry in St. Louis.

Explaining he always was ready to investigate anything harmful to baseball, Landis said he would not pry into how players spend their money unless the method of spending would affect the game itself. The commissioner said he had no evidence Hornsby had bet on anything but the horses.

Veterans Lead In Qualifying Rounds of Meet

Several Unknowns Also Come Through for Open Places in Tourney

NEW YORK—(AP)—Veterans of the amateur golfing world returned to the firing line yesterday and with smoothly-swinging clubs just about took over the 28 qualifying rounds of the National Amateur championship.

Here and there an unknown battled his way into the 153 places remaining open in the first round of the championship at the Alderwood Country club, Portland, Ore., Aug. 23.

One was Ed Kingsley, of Magna, Utah, who fired rounds of 69 and 68 to tie Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, for the day's medal honors, with a total of 137. Goodman reversed Kingsley's figures with 68-69. Each was seven under par for 36 holes.

Low scoring was scattered indiscriminately over the golf map, promising sharp competition in the tournament proper.

Walker cup players had a good day. Two, Scotty Campbell and Harry Givan, had already qualified at Tacoma, Wash., last Friday. They were joined by Charlie Yates, Reynolds Smith, and Walter Emery.

Johnny Fischer, defending champion, was not required to qualify, and the same rule held good for five former champions.

Three of the amateur game's "watch him" boys came through in the Detroit district.

Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, the national intercollegiate title, lead the field with a 154 and Melvin Harbert, of Battle Creek, Mich., who astonished the golfing world with a 20-under par score in the Michigan open, squeezed in with 156. Sandwiched in between was Chuck Kocis, the able workman who won the college title for Michigan, in 1936. He posted a 148.

Form held true in the metropolitan district where many of the east's best were on display. Willie Torres was low man with a 143.

In the group of qualifiers were Ray Billows and Tommy Goodwin, perennial contenders for the New York state title; Frank Strafaci, low amateur in the National open; Bobby Jacobson, and T. Sufferin Tailor.

Black Edges Win Over Jack Gibbons

Wallops St. Paul Boxer to Earn Decision at Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—George Black of Milwaukee won a four-round decision over Young Jack Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, in the main event of a boxing show at State Fair park last night.

Black, used a sharp left and a mixture of left and right uppercuts to win five rounds on Referee Ted Jamieson's scorecard. Two were called even and three were credited to Gibbons.

The Milwaukee floored Gibbons with a left for a no-count in the second round. A series of lefts rattled Gibbons' right eye in the third, and opened a cut over it in the fifth.

Gibbons weighed 173, ten pounds more than the winner. Al Nettlow, 132, Chicago, scored a technical knockout over Augie Kluberg, 136, Milwaukee, in the seventh round of the eight round semi-windup. Baby Joe Gans, 157, Milwaukee Negro, won on a technical knockout from Bobby Matthews, 162, Louisville; Al Schwartz, 150, Milwaukee, won an eight round decision over Frankie Muske, 154, Detroit, and Buddy Paul, 197, St. Paul, scored a technical knockout over Sanders, 176, Milwaukee, in the second round of a four round opener.

Appleton Junior Chamber To be Represented in Meet Next Month

WISCONSIN RAPIDS—Plans for the rapidly advancing of the annual state golf tournament of the Wisconsin State Junior Chamber of Commerce which is to be played over the 18-hole Bulls' Eye-Tri-City course here on Saturday and Sunday, August 21 and 22.

The tournament will be divided into two classifications, medal play and blind bogey with a large number of trophies, and prizes being offered for both divisions.

The traveling four-man team trophy, at stake for the first time last year, and won by Antigo Jacs, will be the outstanding trophy for golfers from the 23 chambers in the state to shoot for. A traveling trophy for the best medalist will be put up this year for the first time.

In connection with the tournament on Saturday evening members of the local committee are planning a dinner-dance. Bridge for the ladies will be played at the clubhouse Saturday and Sunday afternoons and free lodging for visiting Jacs and their wives will be arranged by members of the local group.

Indications are that a sizeable entry list will be received from the state chambers including Milwaukee, Waukegan, Rhinelander, Green Bay, LaCrosse, Beaver Dam, Antigo, Wausau, Manitowish, Oshkosh, Eagle River, Janesville, Appleton, Sheboygan, Neillsville, Merrill, Phillips, Racine, and a number of others.

Arrangements to Be Completed at Meeting Tonight

Steinberg Heads Local Committee; Pelkey Is Head of State Group

ARRANGEMENTS for the state Elks golf tournament to be held at the Butte des Morts golf course Thursday, Aug. 5, will be completed at a meeting of the Appleton committee at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Elks club-rooms. Dan Steinberg, Jr., is chairman of the local committee, and Heber H. Pelkey is chairman of the state golf committee.

More than 100 golfers are expected to participate in the tournament, which will crown an individual champion and a championship 5-man team. District tournaments were held during the last few weeks at Kenosha, Stevens Point and Green Bay to determine squads to compete in the team event.

Teams and individuals will meet in 18-hole medal play here on Aug. 5 and besides the two trophies there will be prizes for everyone with low gross, low net and good-fellowship scores. Milwaukee is the defending team champion and Wilfred Wehrle, Racine, won the individual event last year. Each district is entitled to three 5-man teams and as many individuals as want to can enter the other.

Other members of the arrangements committee are Joseph J. Plank, H. D. Purdy, Genn Arthur, Richard Beelen, Peter De Lain, Ralph McGowan, Elmer Honkamp, J. W. Lawlor, Guy Marston, James R. Joyce, Heber H. Pelkey, A. A. Grutzmacher and Gordon Derber.

Spectacular Ends Mark Four Games In Major Leagues

Merriwell Finishes Thrill Fans in Both Baseball Circuits

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer
Merriwell, the free-swinging, bat-waving, free-for-all in which he can take remote control part by heaving a well-timed but poorly aimed (or vice versa) pop bottle, there's nothing the baseball fan loves more than the good old Merriwell finish.

There were such thrills for him yesterday. Four of the eight games weren't decided until the last half of the final inning.

Most spectacular of the blows struck in winning causes were those delivered by Joseph Michael Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals. Robert "Red" Rolfe of the New York Yankees and Leslie George Scarsella of the Cincinnati Reds.

Joseph Michael, who has been leading the National League batting parade so long it's a habit, wanted for the truly psychological moment to uncork his twenty-first homer of the year.

The New York Giants had rallied to tie the score at 8-all after the Gas House gang's eight-run blast had knocked Carl Hubbell loose from his props. Third Giant Pitcher Al Smith had retired the first two men to face him in the ninth. Then up came Ducky Vuckey and played in one against the left field bleacher rail to win the ball game, 9-8, and drop the Giants to three games behind the Chicago Cubs, who won a 5-2 decision over the Dodgers without any particular fireworks.

Gets Round Trip
Scarsella's four-baser, which scored Ival Goodman ahead of him, saved the day and his tenth victory. For Lefty Lee Grissom. Grissom was clipped by the Boston Bees for two runs in the ninth. But Scarsella's blow made the final score 3-2 for the Cincinnati Reds.

Rolfe delayed his K. O. punch until the eleventh. The Detroit Tigers, having put over a run on Red Ruffing in their half of that frame, were leading by 5-4. But Rolfe's circuit clout, with Frank Crosetti scoring ahead of him, made it 6-5 in favor of the Yanks and stretched their American League lead to six games.

Less showy, but equally effective, were Billy Myers' ninth-inning single that drove in the run that gave Washington a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox, and Philadelphia's Bill Werber's eighth-inning double that brought in two runs and halted the Cleveland Indians, 4-3.

In the other games, Red Lucas pinned a six-hitter on the Philadelphia Phillies to give Pittsburgh a 4-1 triumph, and the St. Louis Browns' 15-hit attack topped the Boston Red Sox, 8-5.

State League Notes

The Weather Man put another dent in the Northern State League's closing lap schedule by washing out the games at Two Rivers and Manitowoc. This upsets the outline as there are no open Sundays for the remainder of the season.

A couple of grudge battles are on tap next Sunday as the Two Rivers Icebergs will be at home to Manitowoc while Little Chute invades Kaukauna for a night game. The other contest is at Green Bay with Kimberly as the visitors.

This is the time of the season that the batsmen are getting peevish about their bingles. Hardly a week goes past without some little player putting the official scorer or league secretary on the pan for an incorrect average.

There is little love lost between outfields. Last Sunday, the spectators, who were nearly frozen in a football wind, had little to say but there was plenty of rag-chewing between the players on the field.

Dick Weisberger, the Little Chute pitcher, is taking a vacation and

Wehrle Ranking As Favorite in Amateur Tourney

Leads Field of 32 Golfers As Meet Enters Championship Round

MADISON—(U)—Wilford Wehrle's par breaking 67 in medal play gave the Racine County club star a favorite's ranking as 32 golfers started the championship round today in the annual Wisconsin amateur tournament at the Maple Bluff Country club.

The 22-year-old links craftsman posted scores of 35 and 32 in yesterday's qualifying play, taking the low total in a field of 147. Sam Ruskin of Milwaukee was runner-up with a total of 70 on a pair of 35s.

Wehrle, quarter-finalist in the British Amateur this year and twice a finalist in the state amateur, went over the 18 holes a second time in 75 strokes to qualify for the United States amateur championships to be held at Portland, Ore., Aug. 23 to 28.

His 142 for the 36 holes was the best performance of six entrants in the sectional test. The other two qualifiers were Dick Ashley of Kenosha, 75-74-149, and Lyn Lardner of Oconomowoc, 75-75-150. Those eliminated were Bill Ploetz, Madison, 77-78-155; Dick Frost, Kenosha, 81-75-155; and Francis Nowak, Madison, 71-84-165.

14 Finish Medal Play
Fourteen players finished medal play with scores lower than the 37-38-75 posted by George Johnson, Jr., Oconomowoc, the defending champion. Former titleholders who qualified were Jimmy Millward, Madison; Lyn Lardner, Dick Ashley, John Russell, Milwaukee, and E. P. Allis, Milwaukee. Allis won the crown 10 times from 1911 to 1930.

One former titleholder, Bowden Davis of Milwaukee, failed to keep pace with the leaders. His 77 total was one stroke higher than the qualifying limit, which tournament officials declared the lowest on record. Ashley's 67 gave him a new state amateur medal record by two strokes.

Today's program includes the first rounds of match play in the junior, senior and flight events. The weather was clear and a light, shifting wind swept the course.

Menasha Falcons Nose Out Kobal's by 2 to 1

Kobal's Taverns split a weekend bill of two games, defeating Fremont 28 to 4 at Fremont Saturday and losing Sunday 2 to 1 to the Menasha Falcons. The Appleton squad scored 15 runs in a big sixth inning rally to clinch the game by a wide margin. Bill Elias led the hitting with a perfect day at the plate, getting three hits and two walks. Norman Wankey allowed the Fremont team only four hits.

Menasha Falcons handed the Kobal squad its tenth defeat in 36 starts Sunday morning at Menasha when they nosed out the Taverns 2 to 1. Bobbie Diener allowed only two hits but the Menasha team converted to nose out the Kobal squad by one run for the second time this season. Sunday the Kobal team will travel to Menasha to meet the Gold Labels and Two Rivers which show against the Appleton squad here on Aug. 8.

July 30—Post-Tuttle versus Atlas (Postponed Game).

The much-ballyhooed Post-Tuttle and Fox River American League game ended in a victory for the Post-Tuttle gang, 8-7, when the squads met at Roosevelt field last evening. S. Tesch hurried for the victors and Des Schade was on the receiving end of his 11-hit pitching. He whiffed 13 Fox River batters and walked 7.

H. Branchford performed for the losers with 10 hits, six strikeouts and one walk to his credit. K. Sonnenleiter was the catcher. Fox River started a rally in the final frame when Lamers singled, Sonnenleiter and Sell walked to fill the bases and Wegner singled to left scoring Lamers and Sonnenleiter.

The rally was nipped, however, when W. Strutz threw home and Schade tossed back to third to catch Sell. The next two batters went down via the strikeout route. S. Tesch poled a triple for his team while N. LaMarr garnered three hits in as many times at bat and W. Strutz had two for four. J. Lamers led the Fox River aggregation with three hits out of four opportunities.

Score in First Inning
Post-Tuttle started the ball rolling by pulling in a run during the first inning. The Fox River squad retaliated in the second and took the lead in the third with three additional markers while the Post-Tuttle crew snared two scores. They grabbed the lead in the fourth frame with three runs and both teams chalked up a run in the fifth. The last Post-Tuttle score was marked up in the seventh while Fox River crowd threatened with two runs in the ninth.

5,000 Golfers Have Used City Course This Summer

More than 5,000 players have toured the municipal golf course thus far this summer, according to Harold Jerke, park superintendent, indicating that the 9-hole playing grounds are as popular today as they were in 1928 when the course was built.

July 4th saw 179 players dubbing shots, slicing, pounding, off long drives and turning in good, bad and indifferent scores.

With improvements constantly being made year by year, the course is in better shape this year than at any previous time, the park superintendent claims.

Play now is on greens that have been entirely reseeded during the last few years. A new type of grass, Washington Creeping Bent, is now used and the last two greens, seventh and ninth holes, were changed last fall. Water lines to facilitate sprinkling are being extended at the present time to various points on the course.

According to the course attendant, many more than 5,000 players would have used the municipal court if backward weather had not held up its opening for two weeks this spring. Usually the course is opened when good weather arrives in April and closes the latter part of October.

Among the improvements made at the course this summer is a new foot-bridge across the small creek just below the tee on the ninth hole. A golfer can get his longest drive on the first hole which is 280 yards while No. 8 and No. 2 holes are the shortest, being about 145 yards.

The course is located near the southeast corner of the city and is dotted with trees which afford shade and restful spots for tired players. There are also three water bubblers located at the club house, the third hole tee and sixth hole green.

Davis and Lake hit homers in the game yesterday and DeDecker socked a triple. Lake and Giesbers hit doubles. Boehler fanned none and walked five and Blick struck out one and walked one. Rohde fanned two and walked one and Davis struck out none and gave up one walk.

Life of the Red Fox

III—TRAINING THE CUBS
Young Foxes stay in or near their homes almost all summer. At the age of a month, they go out to look at the world, but they soon

scamper back, glad to have a snug nest underground.
During those summer months, the old foxes teach the young how to take care of themselves and how to obtain food. Often a live animal is brought to a spot near the den in the mouth of one of the parents. Then the cubs are taught to kill it so they will know how to hunt when they grow up.
A mother fox and three cubs were observed one day while they played near the main hole of their den. Two of the cubs had sport moving the mother's tail back and forth, but the third did something more useful. He captured a frog! It seemed that he did not know just what to do with it, but he kept it in his mouth most of the time and caught it again if it started to hop away when he laid it down.
At this point, the father fox came home, with a rabbit in his mouth.

Block Allows Only Two Hits, Mill Squad Wins

Kaukauna Pitcher Allows Only Two Hits, Both In Final Inning

Kaukauna—George Block almost got another no-hit no-run game to his credit last night as he pitched hitless ball until the last inning, and Thimmany Mill defeated the South Side Merchants in the Twilight Softball league 12-0 at the library grounds.

Unless a new team is brought into the league to take the franchise left vacant by the withdrawal of the Kenke team, there will be no game played tonight, and the victory will go to the Ritz tavern outfit on a forfeit.

The two hits off the offerings of Block last night came in the seventh inning, when the cause was hoped for by the Merchants. Cliff Kemp knocked out a single and was followed by Joe Geisl, with another one-base hit. McMahon walked, and with the bases jammed in the last of the seventh, Block kept the game a shutout by striking out Hatchell and making Vanerven fly out to retire the side.

Score in First
Thimmany opened fire with two runs in the first frame, garnered on errors and walks, without getting a single safe blow. They followed with one in the second and two in the third, when Ken Kille got the first hit of the game, four in the fourth, one in the sixth and two in the seventh.

The Merchants played erratic ball, making costly errors with men on base. Sherman Powers allowed only 12 hits while his opponents collected 12 runs, but he walked 11 to help their cause along.

Block struck out 13 and controlled his fast one better than he has for some time this season, as he walked only five. Not content to pitch 2-1 ball, he led his team mates at the plate with a triple and two doubles in four trips up to bat in four innings.

The spot left open in the league by the Kemke withdrawal is still open, and anyone wishing to enter the league with a team made up now may do so, Clifford Kemp, recreational director said today.

Raspberry Season Will End This Week

Kaukauna—The end of the raspberry season will arrive this week as last pickings are being made now at the farm of George Luedke, Kaukauna grower. The quality of the crop this year was good, but the yield was far from a normal one, because the dry season of a year ago grew short cones on the bushes, and these could not yield a full crop this year.

Donald Coon First to Score 75 Points in Reading Test

Kaukauna—Donald Coon is the first to get his quota of 75 points in the Kaukauna Public Library Reading club, which operates for boys and girls during the summer under the direction of Miss Bernice Haaper, librarian.

Kaukauna—A demonstration of book mending was given to NYA girls yesterday by H. A. Wensley, of the Gaylord company, Syracuse, N. Y., who showed the girls how to use equipment for reconditioning damaged books.

Equipment for doing the work, which otherwise had to be sent to binding companies, will be gotten by the city, and workers under the NYA program will repair the text books used in the high school and in the public graded schools of the city.

Five girls were taught the process. Work will be done under the supervision of Ben Faust, county NYA director.

Continue Repair Work at Schools

Resurfacing of Floors Takes Place at Park Grade Building

Kaukauna—Resurfacing of floors in Park school is near completion as the summer clean-up of Kaukauna schools is being done by school janitors.

Floors in all the classrooms and corridors have been sanded at the school and Park schools. After the sanding a filler surfacing was put on the floors and then they were waxed. Work at Nicolet is complete, and almost finished at Park school. Rooms in the graded schools were equipped with new shelves for books and supplies. The shelves were taken from the assembly rooms in the high school and transferred early in the summer.

The new wax surfacing on the graded school floors is a change from the oil surface formerly used, as a program was undertaken last year by the board of education to have all school floors prepared with wax rather than oil.

Two Scout Troops to Hold Meets Tonight

Kaukauna—Boy Scout troops will meet at 6:30 tonight at their regular meeting places, with competition for the Rotary cup on store for one and a ball game on the evening's program for another.

BROTHERS LAUNCH HOMEMADE CRAFT

With three years of work completed, the Ristau brothers launched their yacht, "Ristaurat," above, in the Fox river at Kaukauna last Friday. Alfred, Harold and Arnold Ristau built the yacht in their home workshop. The craft is a double cabin cruiser, 40 feet long and powered by a 140 horse power marine motor. The craft is outfitted with the latest in yachting equipment. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Ristau Brothers' Yacht Is Gadgeteer's Paradise

Kaukauna—Full of tricky devices for making the most of a little space, the Ristaurat, 40-foot yacht built by the Ristau brothers, is a gadgeteer's paradise, a trip through its cabins reveals.

Built in two winters and part of a third by Alfred, Harold and Arnold Ristau, the boat is entirely the product of their workshop, beginning their father's home, 329 Taylor street. It was launched last Friday morning.

The yacht is a double cabin cruiser, powered by a 140 horse power marine motor. Besides the bridge house, there are two enclosed cabins for sleeping quarters and galley.

Design Cabins
Cabins were designed by the brothers and the hull, a V-type, was built according to blueprints from a marine company. An air pump under the door to the bridge prevents it from slamming. Wind-dows of the craft turn up and down like automobile windows and there is a drain system under each one. Pullman car seats have been transformed into berths for four people. The kitchen is equipped with an ice box, two-burner gas-line stove, sink, cupboards, and breakfast nook. Dishes ride in fitted compartments so that nothing is disturbed when there is a rough sea.

Fittings are all of chromium and there is nothing about the yacht that makes it look homemade. The Ristaus hold patents on several phonograph devices and the royalties from them were used to buy all the material for the boat.

OUTDOOR MEETING
Kaukauna—Members of the Lions club held their second outdoor meeting of the year yesterday as they gathered for a lunch meeting at the Kaukauna Golf club. Prizes were given for golf and a picnic luncheon served.

Boys' Cage Teams to Be Formed Thursday

Kaukauna—Basketball leagues will be organized for Kaukauna boys tomorrow morning at the library grounds. Clifford Kemp, recreational director, will supervise the organization.

Leagues will be made up on a junior-senior basis, just as the softball and hard ball leagues were, so that only boys of the same size and age will be competing with one another. Games will be played on the new outdoor court laid out at the play ground last week. Practice sessions for the boys have been held there on the mornings of this week.

SPEEDER FINED
Kaukauna—John Bergman, route 1, Kaukauna, paid a fine for $10 and costs of $4.75 in Justice Abe Goldin's court Monday on a charge of speeding. He was arrested Monday driving 60 miles an hour on Dodge street.

WEEK'S VACATION
Kaukauna—The Fox River Veneer company is granting a week's vacation to its employees this week, as the plant is shut down. Work will be resumed Monday.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. James Lang is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 407. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Plan Contests For Youngsters

Noseringer, Can and Washer Meets Being Arranged at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—Noseringer, can and washer contests will be held for youngsters at the LaFollette park playground next week. Clifford Kemp, recreational director said today.

Noseringer is a game in which one child holds a stick bearing the image of a man's face, with a long nose on it. Another child tries to ring the nose with a fruit jar rubber. Kemp is receiving several of the noseringer outfits from Gilbert Rogers, recreational director at Hortonville, who is running a similar contest there.

Can and washer is a game in which the children compete in tossing washers into tin cans set on the ground. By a series of eliminations the winners in both tournaments will be chosen.

Hurst's Team Wins From Belongea Squad

Kaukauna—George Hurst's team defeated Jerome Belongea's nine in the Boys' Senior league 10-7, as play continued in the hard ball loop at the Kaukauna Ball park. Lee Lambie pitched for the winners and Herman Franz caught. For the losers Billy Alzer pitched and Steve Andrejeski caught.

Failure of several members of Nick Steffen's team to appear brought a forfeit to Billy Mitchell's team for the league records, but in a pick-up game between the players from both teams Mitchell confirmed the forfeit victory with a 8-3 win.

Far East Conflict Brings Sharp Rise In Wheat Prices

Quotations in Chicago Score Maximum Advance of 4 1-4 Cents

Chicago—(P)—With considerable buying based on war developments in the Far East, wheat prices late today scored a maximum upturn of 4 1-4 cents a bushel.

A majority of wheat handlers, however, indicated that there had been relatively little new export business in North American wheat today. For the time being, Europeans were apparently refusing to follow in values applied chiefly to July contracts in which speculative dealings ended today.

At the close, wheat was unchanged to 4 1-4 cents higher, July 12-14, 12-16, Sept. 11-14, Dec. 12-14, 2 1-2 off to 4 up, Sept. 17-19, Dec. 22 off to 4 up, Sept. 27-29, Dec. 22, and oats at 4 1-2 up to 4 1-4 advance.

Lower Trend in Hogs and Cattle

Bids for Choice Steers, However, Set New Peak For Eight Years

Chicago—(P)—Hog and cattle prices continued today to decline from recent high levels although choice steers got bids above $17 per hundredweight at a new peak for the last eight years.

There was no definite explanation for the weakness in hogs and cattle to near choice cattle except the fact that the dressed markets are still sluggish because of consumer resistance to higher meat quotations. Receipts were light.

The decline in hogs was around 10 cents. A few choice medium weights sold at $12.95 to $13. The bulk of good and choice medium weights, however, brought $12.55 to $12.90.

Prime and common and medium grade steers were steady with a 25-cent decline appearing in good to near choice kinds. A 5 1/2 cent equalized the eight-year high reached Monday while one strictly prime load got a bid of more than $17 and several were held above that figure. It was largely a $15 to $16.50 market, however.

Lambs were slow and steady. Wholesale beef carcasses and pork loin quotations were unchanged.

Revolution Leader and His Family

The quiet, thoughtful leader of the Spanish revolt, General Francisco Franco, is shown at his headquarters at Salamanca with his wife and daughter. War observers believed the decisive battle of the war was being fought at the gates of Madrid.

U. S. Government Bonds Show Firmer Tendencies

New York—(P)—Hardening of U. S. government loans was the bright spot in a lagging bond market today. Most domestic corporates were unchanged to lower, with the carriers taking a good part of the pressure.

Rail liens declined from fractions to around a point. Great Northern 4s, found lower levels. Resisting the down pull were Northern Pacific 4s.

Industrials, including convertible issues, turned lower. Foreign loans were uneven with softness in Japanese issues. Polish and some South American bonds were on the upside.

Announcement of Prices Expected To Steady Market

Believe Overbuying and Speculation Will be Eliminated

Announcement of prices for fourth quarter delivery on principal rolled steel products by a leading producer at the level prevailing for third quarter has met the expectations of market observers and will steady the market by eliminating tendency toward overbuying or speculation, says Steel.

The statement by Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. that prices would be continued includes bars and small shapes, structural shapes, plates, tin plate and other tin mill products, strip, sheets, sheet piling, standard and light rails and accessories, car and locomotive axles, solid wrought steel wheels and semifinished products. Galvanized sheets, tubular goods and pig iron are not included. American Steel & Wire Co. has reaffirmed prices on wire and wire products for fourth quarter.

Prices Sept. 1.
Pig iron prices probably will be announced about Sept. 1. Producers are faced with the question of production costs, the course of scrap prices and with export inquiry and are not ready to commit themselves. In galvanized sheets the price of zinc is an important factor and this is being studied for the present.

No apprehension exists among steelmakers in view of the slower rate of buying, compared with earlier months. The present rate is excellent for the time of year and a steady flow of business is better than the rush for tonnage that prevailed in the spring. With much business yet to be cleared from books current orders serve to maintain operations at a high rate and renewed fall placements are relied on to continue near-capacity production.

Sheet deliveries, which have been extended further than in other products, are being bettered as backlogs are reduced in face of lighter buying. However, considerable delay is still encountered, about 16 weeks, hot-rolled in about 18, galvanized in 18 to 19 and cold-rolled in 10 to 11 weeks. Some automotive buying for 1938 models is being felt.

Rate Is Lower
Closing of the National Tube Co. plant at Lorain, O., for vacation cut the operating rate in the Cleveland district sharply and the Pittsburgh area also receded 5 points. These were offset in part of increased activity in Eastern Pennsylvania, New England and the Wheeling district. The national rate was lowered 1 point by these changes, to 81 per cent of capacity. Eastern Pennsylvania rose 2 points to 70 per cent, Wheeling 1 point to 92 and New England 12 points to 90. Cleveland dropped 28 points to 51 per cent, Pittsburgh 5 points to 83 and Detroit 2 points to 85. There was no change at Chicago at 84 per cent, Youngstown at 78, Buffalo at 88, Birmingham at 96 and Cincinnati and St. Louis at 93 each.

Largely due to practical shutdown by Ford Motor Co. automobile production last week dropped to 88,000 cars. General Motors held its rate with 50,040 and Chrysler with 25,550, while Ford made only 655. All others made a total of 10,810, compared with 12,585 the previous week.

Not Much Gain
In spite of iron ore shipments as high as the entire fleet can bring to lower lake ports are on hand at ports and furnaces July 1 was only 2,450,000 tons larger than at the corresponding period in 1936. With consumption in June, this year, 875,000 tons, more than in the same month last year this excess reserve is not imposing when prospects for steel production through the winter promise new records. Remaining months of navigation are relied on to increase the spread much further.

Strength continues in scrap. At Pittsburgh and Chicago quotations rose 50 cents further on renewed buying, but at eastern points no further advance was made. Export demand is having an effect as far west as Chicago and is being felt in the Birmingham, Ala. area, which has been free from this competition in the past.

Because of increases in steelmaking grades the composite price of scrap rose last week 25 cents, to $19, which is level with early May. Stronger scrap prices lifted the iron and steel composite 7 cents, to $49.11. The finished steel composite is unchanged at $47.70.

THESE BRITAINS ADVOCATE DRESS REFORM FOR MEN

These Englishmen, especially that pair in the middle, were bent on reforming some of the inhibitions of masculine dress. After serious thought, they looked up their tailors and obtained the above results. These were the prize costumes at the men's dress reform party competition at St. George's Hall in London.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD BLAKESLEE

New York—(U)—Something Columbus overlooked in 1492 or shortly thereafter has been rediscovered in 1937 in the making of metals.

It is the principal of making an alloy when there isn't heat enough to melt one of the metals. The principle was used this year to make tungsten alloy without melting the tungsten. Melting large masses of tungsten is economically impossible.

But tungsten powder, mixed with copper and nickel powder, heated to the point where the copper and nickel get sticky makes an alloy.

Before Columbus, the Indians of the Esmeraldas coast, South America, heated platinum and gold until the gold melted. They hammered the two together. Repeated heatings and hammerings produced a platinum alloy so perfect that even a metallurgist, on superficial examination, would take it for ordinary platinum.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Ginger Rogers on Hollywood feuds:

"Everybody in Hollywood plays so many jokes and gags, that's how half these feud rumors got started. People on the outside, coming in late or leaving early when a gag is under way, can misconstrue a whole incident. It's like catching a movie scent out of sequence and reading meanings into it when you haven't read the script."

Ginger and K. Hepburn, performing as co-stars in "Stage Door," still-knocking on wood—haven't had trouble. The dope is, however, that Ginger is wrapping up the picture to take home with her. Almost as fast as they rewrite the stage play for the round stages, from day to day. Maybe Hepburn will gratify the trouble-seekers by waking up to the fact and starting something, but I doubt if she cares or would show it if she did.

Nobody misconstrued anything, however, on the Shirley Ross-Martha Raye coolness since "Waikiki Wedding." Buddies at first, the girls still say it with icebergs.

Stars aren't the only ones who form mutual non-admiration societies. One of the bitterest in town today is that between the Warner stylists, Orry Kelly and Milo Anderson.

Constance Bennett pretty nearly drew an "A" for untemperamental deportment during her last picture. "Unqualified" "A" was withheld on her past record, but during "Topper" she tried hard, anyway.

Eddie Cantor's stand-in, Gale Mogul, doubles as a gag-man. Warner Baxter's joining the colony's yachtsmen. His 51-foot cabin cruiser, accommodating 10 and rigged with fishing equipment, is due August 15. The new Ann Southern-Roger Pryor home will have a pool protected from sun-glare by processed glass roofing. In "Danger—Love at Work" Ann and Jack Haley wore rubber suits under their clothing while working for two days in water scenes. Just a studio precaution against pneumonia.

Noon in Hollywood. The Vendome: Noah Beery in a booth alone, joined later by Wally. George Olsen and Ethel Shutta. June Travis, waiting in the ante-room for friends, greets them enthusiastically. Must be visitors to town.

Oscar Straus, alone and moody, lunches on unmusical Weinerschnitzel and beer. Skeets Gallagher. George Jessel. Herbert Marshall and agent, joined by Eddie Sutherland. Bette Davis gaily table-visiting en route to hers. Ditto Nancy Carroll, looking very trim. Agents, writers, directors, stars—and people at other tables looking at same. The bill for two (chicken sandwich, chicken-stuffed tomato, coffees, apple cakes) is $2.50, plus tax, plus tip—including stellar parade, free.

Mrs. Inez Collins entertained the Methodist Ladies Aid society in the church basement Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Kiekhoefer, Helen and Kenneth Kiekhoefer left Wednesday morning on a motor trip through the western states.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dory of Milwaukee were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dery.

There are 717 pens for rearing game birds in California, maintained by the state or sportsmen's groups.
